Voorwoord

Na lang twijfelen is de Nederlandsche Vereeniging van Antiquaren (NVvA) in overleg met de congres- en beurscommissies van onze vereniging en het bestuur van de International League of Antiquarian Booksellers (ILAB) tot onze grote spijt tot de conclusie gekomen dat het niet haalbaar en verantwoord is om een congres en beurs in het najaar in Nederland te houden.

Voor de commissieleden was het teleurstellend om deze beslissing te nemen omdat zo veel voorbereidend werk al was verricht. U zult begrijpen dat we gezien de pandemie geen andere keuze hadden. 'Social distancing' maakt de beide evenementen onmogelijk.

Onze jaarlijkse beurs zal natuurlijk weer plaats vinden in 2021. Wij zullen te zijner tijd hierover nadere informatie verschaffen via onze website.

Onze leden waren inmiddels begonnen met voorbereidingen te treffen voor de aangekondigde beurs dit najaar. Zoals het maken van een keuze uit hun rijke en interessante collectie boeken en prenten die getoond zouden worden in hun stand aan de beursbezoekers.

Daarom heeft het NVvA bestuur besloten dit jaar wel een gedrukte Gemeenschappelijke Catalogus met bijdragen van Nederlandse leden uit te brengen. Op die manier willen wij ons aan u als trouwe bezoeker aan onze beurs, dit jaar op papier presenteren. Zo blijven we in contact en stellen u in de gelegenheid toch te kunnen genieten van vijf eeuwen papieren werelderfgoed. Alles binnen handbereik.

Onze leden hebben hun best gedaan u met een rijk gevarieerd aanbod van antiquarische en bibliofiele boeken en originele prenten te verassen met hun bijdragen in de geïllustreerde catalogus die nu voor u ligt. Als u vragen heeft over de aangeboden boeken en prenten kunt u vanzelfsprekend contact opnemen met de aanbieder. Neemt u ook eens de tijd om een bezoek te brengen aan de websites van onze leden. Via onze site www.nnva.nl vindt u informatie over onze leden en hun met zorg geselecteerde aanbod. Voor inlichtingen over alle leden van de ILAB gaat u naar www.ilab.org

Wij blikken vol vertrouwen naar de toekomst en hopen u allen weer persoonlijk te ontmoeten op de beurs in Amsterdam in 2021.

Veel leesplezier en blijf gezond.

AMOR LIBRORUM NOS UNIT.

Namens het NVvA bestuur,

Preface

After lengthy consideration, the Dutch Association of Antiquarian Booksellers (Nederlandsche Vereeniging van Antiquaren or NVvA), in consultation with its conference and trade fair committee and the board of the International League of Antiquarian Booksellers (ILAB), has with great regret concluded that it is not feasible or responsible to hold a conference and trade fair in the Netherlands this autumn.

The committee members were especially disappointed to have to make this decision because so much preparatory work had already been done. You will understand that given the pandemic, we had no other choice. 'Social distancing' would make both events impossible.

Our annual trade fair will of course take place again in 2021. We will provide further information on this in due time via our website.

Our members had already started to prepare for the fair originally planned for this autumn, making a choice from their rich and interesting stocks of books and prints to display in their booths for the visitors.

For this reason, the NVvA board has decided that this year we will publish a printed joint catalogue with contributions from our Dutch members. In this way, we wish to present ourselves on paper to you, the loyal visitors to our fair. We hope this will help us stay in touch and give you the opportunity to enjoy five centuries of world heritage on paper: everything at your fingertips.

Our members have done their best to surprise you with a richly varied selection of antiquarian and bibliophile books and original prints described in their contributions to the illustrated catalogue that now lies before you. If you have any questions about the books and prints offered here, you can of course contact the booksellers offering them. Please also take the time to visit our members' websites. On our site www.nnva.nl you will find information about our members and their carefully selected offerings. For information about all members of the ILAB, visit www.ilab.org.

I thank the editors who prepared this joint catalog.

We look to the future with confidence and hope to meet you all again personally at the 2021 fair in Amsterdam.

Enjoy your reading and stay healthy.

BERBICE SLAVE REVOLT OF 1763 — EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT & OTHER DOCUMENTS

[Berbice slave revolt of 1763 - Manuscript journal & other documents]. - 'Journael op de Reijs na de Berbiesie. Gehoude door de Luijt. A. Boonacker op het schip sorge Hendrick begonnen den 5 November 1763', and the 'Land Jornaal Gehouden In Rio de Berbiesie op de post en plantasie Steevenburgh in Rio Canje beginnende den 15 Febri 1764 Door A. Boonacker'. November 5, 1763 – April 29, 1764. ca. 21.5 × 17 cm., (50) pp. Original wrappers, with a later title label on front; - ADDED: A. Boonacker's (military) documents, incl. letters of appointment, with signatures of the Prince of Orange and the Duke of Brunswick; - AND: A handcoloured engraved map by R. & J. Ottens, 'Nieuwe gemeten kaart van de colonie de Berbice …', the re-issue of the map from 1740, altered in 1764, with the added account of this Berbice slave revolt: 'Relaas van de rebellie, ontstaan op de plantagien in de Geoctroyeerde Colonie van de Berbice, February 23, 1763'. ca. 103 × 54 cm. € 24 500

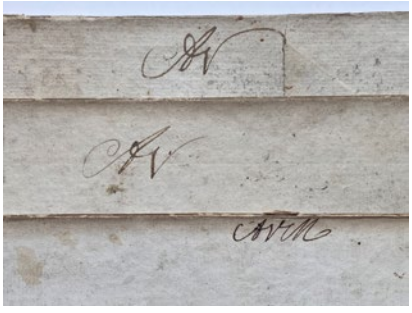
A rare collection of papers relating to the Berbice slave revolt of 1763, including an extraordinary manuscript journal, an eyewitness account by a Dutch Lieutenant who served in the regiment that crushed the initially successful slave revolt in the former Dutch colony (now the Republic of Guyana). The present journal was written in 1763–1764 by Adrianus Boonacker (1739–1818), at the time Lieutenant in the newly formed naval infantry regiment under the command of Colonel Jan Marius de Salve. He first relates the sea journey from the Dutch Republic to Berbice and in the 2nd part, 'Landjournaal', he describes the events 'on Land', including the regiment's daily routine and their hunt for slave rebels. Several times allied Indians exchange cut-off hands of rebels, for bread, cheese, gin, powder and lead. The journal ends two days after the account of the brutal killing by the Dutch of the rebel leader Atta on April 27, 1764, also detailed in this journal.

'On Sunday, February 27, 1763, slaves in the Dutch colony of Berbice on the Caribbean coast of South America launched a massive rebellion. (..) The number of insurgents expanded rapidly as rebels set fire to plantations. They killed several dozen Europeans and sent the rest fleeing. In no time, the rebellion encompassed practically all of the 4,000 to 5,000 slaves in Berbice, an apparently united force. The insurgents controlled the colony until the arrival of an army from the Netherlands [in January 1764]. As the rebels ran out of food, weapons, and ammunition, the attacking regulars and their Amerindian allies killed scores and captured hundreds. As the Dutch regained their colony, they executed 125 men and 3 women in gruesome ways.' (see: M. Kars).

Provenance: Family papers of the Boonacker family. A Dutch transcript of the 2nd part of the journal is added. - Marjoleine Kars, Dodging Rebellion: Politics and Gender in the Berbice Slave Uprising of 1763, 2016; The ultimate book by M. Kars on the 1763 Slave Rebellion in the Dutch Colony of Berbice, is expected to be published in the 2nd half of 2020.

RARE 18TH CENTURY ANAMORPHIC PRINTS BY VAN MUSSCHENBROEK

Optical toys - MUSSCHENBROEK, Jan van. A series of 17 anamorphic prints, contemporary coloured engravings, contemp. mounted/ wrapped around cardboard (most of the plates ca. 27 × 27 cm.), 3 plates signed on verso in manuscript 'JAvM', or 'JM', depicting a variety of scenes, each with a sequence number in manuscript, in a contemporary half pigskin portfolio back titled 'Conis Figuren', and 1 contemporary metal viewing cone (7.8 × 8.4 cm.). Leyden, workshop of Jan van Musschenbroek, ca. 1720. € 12 500



Very rare collection of 17 anamorphic images, 3 signed, from the workshop of Jan van Musschenbroek (1687–1748), the Leyden instrument maker. The oldest surviving Dutch magic latern bought around 1708, now in Hungary, was likely acquired at the van Musschenbroek workshop. Around 1720 Jan constructed the well known magic lantern, commissioned by W.J. 's Gravesande, professor of physics in Leyden, now in the coll. of the Boerhaave Museum. Jan supplied not only his brother Pieter van Musschenbroek, the scientist and inventor of the Leyden Jar, but also Tsar Peter the Great. Jan's father Johann Joosten and his uncle Samuel were the first in the Netherlands to construct physical instruments like pneumatic pumps, microscopes and telescopes and they supplied Christiaan Huygens and Antonie van Leeuwenhoek.

The distorted perspective make anamorphic images unintelligible unless seen from a specific vantage point or reflected in a particular mirror that unscrambles them. To make our images recognizable, the viewer must look directly at the tip of the cone to see the reflected image. Our first anamorphosis, which reads "Verwagt nog beeter" ("Expect even better"), is followed by a sequence of pictures of flowers and shells, arcadian scenes, music playing, lovers and other characters, each with a number in manuscript ranging from 1 to 18. Anamorphic prints intended for sheer optical amusement would become very popular in the 18th century. The print series made by van Musschenbroek are among the very first. A series of 13 similar Musschenbroek prints are in the collections of the Getty Library (Werner Nekes Collection 93.R.118). Another similar set of 18 prints with different numbering is in the collection of Richard Balzer. Regarding colouring and engraving, these 2 sets are sl. different. The manuscript signature on one print in our collection is identical to that on the first print in the Nekes Collection and is cited in the Getty description as 'AvM'. Our cone is identical to the one in the Getty/ Nekes collection.

Given the purpose of the prints, it is not surprising that most of the prints show signs of use, soiling, scratches and sm. damages. - A desirable, very rare and early series of original Musschenbroek's anamorphic prints. - Buijnsters, Papertoys, pp. 371 (references to 10 of the prints by Musschenbroek); 'Ich sehe was du nicht siehst! FIRST & ONLY FRENCH EDITION, CONTAINING THE FIRST INDEPENDENT WORK BY CLUSIUS

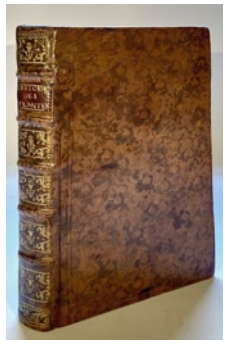
DODONAEUS, R. (C. CLUSIUS, translator & contributor). Histoire des Plantes, en laquelle est contenue la description entière des herbes, c'est à dire, leur especes, forme, noms, temperament, vertus & operations. [-] Nouvellement traduite de bas Aleman en François par Charles de l'Escluse. [And:] Petit recveil, avqvel est contenve la description d'avcvnes gommes et liqvevrs, provenans tant des arbres, qve des herbes: ensemble de quelques bois, fruicts, & racines aromatiques, desquelles on se sert és boutiques [-]. Antwerp, Jean Loë, 1557. Folio. (24), 584. (36) pp. With ca. 840 woodcuts in the text, including woodcuts by the artist Pieter van der Borcht. Contemporary calf with richly gilt spine, raised bands and red morocco letterpiece. € 6850

Rare first and only French edition of the famous herbal or 'Cruydeboeck' by Dodonaeus, first published in 1554 by Jan van der Loe. Only 3 years later it was translated, revised and enlarged with a supplement by Carolus Clusius, or Charles de l'Escluse (1526–1609). This last addition, 'Petit recueil', provided with an extra title page, is in fact the very first independent work by Clusius, the only work published by him in French, giving notes on plants which he had observed in Southern France. The great botanists Rembert Dodoens, or Rembertus Dodonaeus (1517/1518–1585) and Clusius were both Flemish, trained as physicians, who pursued a knowledge of plants not just for medicinal properties, but also in its own right. Both men have held the chairs in botany, within the medical faculty of Leyden. Clusius not only translated the herbal, he considerably enlarged the present work with many new descriptions and illustrations. Some 108 new woodblocks were made of new plants he had seen when visiting gardens of amateur botanists on his travels through Germany, Switzerland and France.



The book is profusely illustrated with fine woodcuts, consisting of 3 main groups. Dodoens had been the translator, although not mentioned on the title, of the Dutch edition of the herbal by Leonard Fuchs, the 'Primi de Stirpium Historia Comentariorum', published between 1543 and 1549. The Latin and German editions of 1545 and the mentioned Dutch edition contain the same 517 woodcuts. "Dodonaeus obtained the use of wood-blocks which had been employed in the octavo edition of Fuchs' work. To these a number of new engravings were added." (Arber p. 82). Since the first edition of Dodoens herbal contains some 715 woodcuts, there was a considerable increase of new woodcuts. In our present edition the greater part of the over 100 new woodcuts were probably drawn by the artist Pieter van der Borcht (ca. 1530–1608), one of the most gifted botanical painters of the 16th century.

A very attractive copy in a fine binding, beautifully illustrated. - Botany in the Low Countries, 28; Johnston 78; Nissen BBI, 510; Bibl. Belg. II, 208; Belgica Typographica 951; Cleveland Herbal 78

ROTTERDAM'S ANATOMICAL "WUNDERKAMMER": A RARE CATALOGUE OF THE ANATOMICAL THEATRE

Rotterdam, Stefanus Mostert, 1740. 8°. 19th-century marbled boards. € 3750

¶ Rare catalogue of the cabinet of curiosities of the anatomy theatre of Rotterdam, founded in 1642. Although anatomy theatres were originally established to teach anatomy and medical and surgical techniques to students and barber surgeons, they soon became a public attraction: people wanted to see the curiosities of the human and animal bodies, and public anatomical demonstrations also became more and more common. Especially in the summer, when the problem of preserving the bodies made dissections impossible, the anatomical "trophies" were exhibited as a kind of "Wunderkammer". The present catalogue lists the no fewer than 573 curiosities one could see in the Rotterdam anatomy theatre, including 245 minerals from all over the world, listed in a separate section. ¶ The catalogue lists 328 anatomical specimens, displayed in several rooms and cabinets. Some are the more "common" specimens one would expect to find in an anatomy theatre, such as human skeletons and human organs (including kidneys, a liver, a heart and a windpipe), mostly from executed criminals, but also a lot of animal skeletons and organs (including horses, a peacock, seals, sharks and eagles). The first cabinet in the first room contains mostly stillborn babies and their organs. People must have been amazed by the enormous number of more remarkable curiosities, such as the rib of an elephant, the penis of a whale and even the snout of a large swordfish, as well as the kidney stone that Jan Jansz. de Doot famously removed from his own body. ¶ The present catalogue may even have served as a kind of "museum guide" for visitors to the theatre, giving very detailed descriptions of all its curiosities. It gives remarkable and detailed insights into the 18th-century study of anatomy and medical science and its popularization. ¶ With the library stamp of the probation officer Johannes Hendrik Willem Eldermans (1904–1985) on the last free endleaf. Wrappers slightly worn, spine a little discoloured, head of the spine slightly damaged, but otherwise in very good condition. ¶ 1–16, [4 blank], 17–26 pp. BMN I, p. 100; Digitaal vrouwenlexicon van Nederland ("Aal de Dragonder"); STCN (1 copy); WorldCat (7 copies).

FRISIAN FLORA AND PLANTS OF NORTHWESTERN EUROPE: A DETAILED DESCRIPTION

GABBEMA, Simon Abbes. Friesche lust-gaarde ofte Boom-heester-bloem – en kruyd-waarande, bestaande uyt der gewassen beschrijvinge, die in Hoog – en Neder-duyds-land en de aangrenzende land-schappen bekent zijn.
Leeuwarden, Hendrik Rintjes, 1686 (second title-page after preliminaries: 1687). 4°. With an engraved allegorical frontispiece, ascribed to Jan Luyken. Contemporary vellum, sprinkled edges, new endpapers. € 3750

¶ Detailed botanical description of Frisian and Northwest European plants, trees, flowers and herbs by the Frisian historian Simon Abbes Gabbema (1628–1688). Although Gabbema was appointed history writer of Frisia in 1659 by the States of Frisia because of his learning and knowledge concerning Frisian history, he also knew a lot about botany. ¶ The frontispiece is often ascribed to Jan Luyken (Klaversma & Hannema 545). Altogether this work can be considered a compilation of Gabbema's own botanical knowledge enriched with ancient knowledge, forming an extensive Frisian and Northwestern European flora. ¶ The present copy contains two leaves not normally present (4*5 and 5*5: the STCN notes them only in the copy at the Royal Library in The Hague): two laudatory poems by J. Vollenhove and H. Sweerts. Binding a bit dirty, frontispiece a little browned and repaired, some small stains throughout the book, some paper corners a little frayed, a small hole in leaf 2Y1, but otherwise in good condition. ¶ [1], [1 blank], [44], 660, [60] pp. Bibliotheca Hulthemiana 5970; Journal of the New York Botanical Garden (1902), p. 184; STCN (9 copies, only 1 with the extra leaves); for the author: Van der Aa, Biographisch woordenboek VII, pp. 3–4; NNBW, VI (1924); Posthuma, "Plantkunde uit de oude doos", in: De levende natuur 21 (1916), pp. 78–79; not in Hunt; Nissen; Pritzel; Stafleu & Cowan.

TWO VERY RARE TREATISES ON SCURVY AND SYPHILIS

GAUKES, Yvo. Genees en heelkonstige redenvoering van de scheurbot. Waarin de schrijver van vooren betoogt, en van agteren bevestigt, dat deze ziekte niet uit een zuur, taai, en dik bloed; maar uit een te vlug alkaalis, en te dun bloed voortkoomt; en voornaamentlijk door zuure geneesmiddelen ras geneesen word.
Utrecht, Willem van de Water, 1705.
With: (2) GAUKES, Yvo. Genees en heelkonstige redevoeringe van de Spaanse pokken, en der zelver onderhoorige ziekten, waar in de schryver haar alle kortelyk uit de oorzaaken afleid, en bekend maakt, hoe de geneesinge met weinige en min kostbaare geneesmiddelen, ras, veilig, en geneuglyk gaande en staande volbragt word.
Amsterdam, Timotheus ten Hoorn, 1706. 2 works in 1 volume. 8°. Contemporary calf, gold-tooled spine, red sprinkled edges. € 3250

Extremely rare work on syphilis by the phyisician Yvo Gaukes (ca. 1660–post 1738), bound with the first edition of his treatise on scurvy, written two years later but one year before the present second edition of the treatise on syphilis. In his Genees en heelkonstige redenvoering van de scheurbot, first published in 1705, he describes not only cases of scurvy (with his commentary on them as a physician), but also the symptoms and the causes of the disease, very common on ship voyages. His preface notes that he wrote his treatise primarily to reduce the death rates on board of VOC and WIC ships, where scurvy took a great toll. In 132 paragraphs he discusses the symptoms and causes, then presents continues with 122 treatments for scurvy, at that time still often a fatal disease. ¶ Gaukes's Genees en heelkonstige redevoeringe van de Spaanse pokken first appeared in 1703 but only one copy of that edition is known to survive. Timotheus ten Hoorn, notorious for the pornographic literature of his early career, published both the first and the present second edition (1706), nearly as rare as the first. ¶ A contemporary 38-page manuscript following the treatise on syphilis makes the present copy unique and especially interesting, though its author is unknown. It includes recipes and treatments, in Latin and Dutch, for several diseases, asthma, epilepsy and arthritis. The owner's inscriptions on the first free endpaper, by two 18th-century surgeons, suggest the present volume served as a practical handbook for treating their patients suffering from syphilis and scurvy. We have traced only 2 other copies of the treatise of scurvy and one of that on syphilis, which make these practical medical guides very rare. ¶ With several owner's inscriptions on first free endpaper, including "Io: Lucij meester chirurg" and "Marcellus Melius, chirurgijn tot mol, 1786". Binding slightly worn (especially around the spine), corners a little bumped, otherwise in very good condition. ¶ 96; [4 blank]; 175; [28], [2 blank], [10], [17 blank] pp. ¶ Ad 1: BMN, p. 273; STCN (2 copies). Ad 2: BMN, p. 222; STCN (1 copy).

L'ISLE (DELISLE), Guillaume, and others.
Le flambeau de la guerre allumee au Rhin; representee en 36 nouvelles cartes geographiques, … = De fakkel des oorlogs ontstoken aan den Rhyn; verbeeld in 36 nieuwe geographische landkaarten, …

Very rare pocket atlas of the Rhine-area between Cologne in the north and Basel, published for use by military officers and civilian travellers and based on maps prepared by Guillaume de l'Isle (1675–1725) during the War of the Spanish Succession (1701–1714). A folding map shows the entire region and identifies the separate maps. The publisher promises in the introduction that all 36 maps combined will result in a "very large map": ca. 140 × 65 cm. ¶ The present pocket atlas, marketed for travellers, was sold ready bound and coloured, as opposed to the common practice of selling books in loose sheets. Schenk published a second edition in 1744 with several corrections and an extra map. ¶ The British Captain George Howard (1718–1796) bought the present copy on 10 August 1743, probably at the bookshop of Philipp Heinrich Hutter in Frankfurt. Howard served in the 3rd regiment of foot ("The Buffs") under his father Thomas Howard and had just participated in the Battle of Dettingen (May 1743) during the War of the Austrian Succession (1740–1748) when he bought this atlas. He would later command the Buffs at the Battle of Fontenoy (1745) and at Falkirk Muir and Culloden (1746). After the wars he became an MP and was ultimately promoted to Field Marshal in 1793. Loosely inserted in a pocket of the atlas is a note in Howard's hand describing on one side the affairs on 10–13 August 1743 and on the other side his expenses in July and August 1743. The pocket atlas is probably noted as "a book of maps" on 11 August. ¶ With the owner's inscription of George Howard on the paste-down and a leaf containing notes in his hand loosely inserted in the front pocket. A later slip of paper containing a manuscript title and shelfmarks is mounted on the back board. Headbands slightly worn, otherwise in very good condition. ¶ Koeman III, Sche 10; Maandelyke uitreksels; of Boekzaal der geleerde waereld XL (April 1735), pp. 484–485; STCN (1 copy), WorldCat (5 copies).

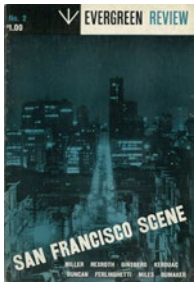
CHELSEA (Review)

Nos. 1–38. Chelsea Review. NY: Chelsea Foundation. Summer 1958–1979. Orig. Wrappers (very well preserved set, with only light dustsoiling; no 30/31 is double isue). € 2000

¶ Established in 1958 by Ursule Molinaro, Venable Herndon, George Economou, Robert Kelly and Joan Kelly. Later, Sonia Raiziss was an editor. It published poems and prose by Denise Levertov, Umberto Eco, Raymond Carver, and Grace Paley. Writers such as W. S. Merwin, Sylvia Plath, A. R. Ammons and Paul Auster were published in the magazine when they were still emerging.

EVERGREEN

(Nos. 1–31 publ. as: EVERGREEN REVIEW). Nos. 1–97 (last publ.). New York, 1957/58–1973, then No. 98 (last and all published), New York, Grove Press, 1984. Original illustrated wrappers; in-8 and in-4. A few corners and spines with faint creases or slight wear, but on the whole a fine set. Very rare complete. ¶ ADDED: A signed copy of Vol. 1 no 2 : San Francisco Scene 1957 Rosset, Barnet (Editor) Pictorial wrapper. UNIQUE copy of the most important Beat writing published prior to Kerouac's 'On The Road'. This 'San Francisco Scene' issue celebrates the epochal 'Six Poets at Six Gallery' reading, which turned several of the young poets, especially Allen Ginsberg with his reading of Howl (first appearance), into instant celebrities. Ferlinghetti offered to publish 'Howl' the next day. Signed by Ferlinghetti, Michael McLure and Gary Snyder at the respective contributions.



¶ ADDED: A poster for Evergreen. An original 44–1/2 inch high by 29–1/2 inch wide color poster illustrated with Sergei Ivanov's May Day image advertising the counter-culture political periodical, the Evergreen Review. Circa 1967, the poster is illustrated with Ivanov's image of a festive maiden in a sheer dress scattering roses over the heads of the massed proletariat. Cyrillic text is printed above the periodical's name "Evergreen" which is boldly printed across the top. The Cyrillic text is explained at the bottom as being a translation of the periodical's slogan: "In Russia it means Join the Underground". This is boldly printed at bottom left next the request to "Demand Evergreen at your newsdealer" and an illustration of the magazine with the same cover image. There are several chips and short tears along the edges with a tiny piece out from the bottom left corner and a heavier crease to the top left corner. € 5000

¶ The magazine of the Beat-Generation, edited by Barney Rosset, with contribs. by Henri Miller, L. Ginsberg, Albert. Camus, Jack Kerouac, Samuel Beckett, J.P. Sartre, Eugène Ionesco, Karl Jaspers, Tennessee Williams, Malcolm X, Vladimir Nabokov, Boris Pasternak, interviews with Bernadette Devlin (Women's Lib and other topics), Fernando Arrabal, Ingmar Bergman. Several issues were banned, and sets are now hard to find.

THE EXILE Edited by Ezra Pound

¶ Edited by Ralph Ginzburg and Warren Boroson, libertarian journal, and important sixties publication. The magazine was notable for having been sued by Barry Goldwater over a 1964 issue entitled "The Unconscious of a Conservative: A special Issue on the Mind of Barry Goldwater". Cover designs by Herb Lubalin. He became best known for his work with a succession of magazines published by Ralph Ginzburg: Eros, Fact, and Avant Garde. Rare set. With the Marylin Monroe number. Vol. 4 no 4 (the important last one) subtitled: An antidote to the timidity and corruption of the American press. Civil War: America is splitting in two. Contains the Poll by Fact with 30 wellknown Americans (Kazin, Chayefsky, Ginsberg, Warhol, Hartford, Krassner,etc.; also Tuli Kupferberg "Divided we stand", a letter from prison (David Reed) etc.

FUCK YOU A Magazine of the Arts

No. 5, vol. 8, March 1965. The "Third Anniversary Mad Motherfucker Issue! Cover by ANDY WARHOL !! From his evil "Couch movie", being an original thermofax print. New York, Fug Press. 76 sheets, mimeographed on various colour paper, with the thermofax front cover (which has three small chips, leaving the important image still entirely visible, see photograph) still attached. Side-stapled; last 20 pages stapled upside down, last text page pulled loose from the staples, otherwise in very good condition. (27,8 × 21,5 cm). € 5000

HOLLYWOOD QUARTERLY

Volume 1 - 5 (all publ.). Berkeley & Los Angeles:(University of California Press), 1945–1950. Together 20 issues and supplement issue to 1 no 1. Original printed wrappers. An excellent set. € 1400

¶ Edited by John Howard Lawson, S.T. Farquhar, a.o. (Hollywood Writers Mobilization). For its entire life, the Quarterly held to the leftist utopianism of its founders, several of whom would later be blacklisted. The journal attracted a collection of writers unmatched in North American film studies for the heterogeneity of their intellectual and practical concerns: from film, radio, and television industry workers to academics; from Sam Goldwyn, Edith Head, and Chuck Jones to Theodor Adorno and Siegfried Kracauer.

THUNBERG, Carl Peter. Travels in Europe, Africa, and Asia, made between the years 1770 and 1779. 2nd edition. London, F. and C. Rivington, 1795. 4 volumes. 8vo. Contemporary tree calf gilt, with red morocco title-labels on spines. With engraved frontispiece and 10 engraved plates (1 folding; sl. foxed). € 1250

¶ First published in Swedish in Upsala in 1788–1793 Resa uti Europa, Africa, Asia; with armorial bookplate of Rd. Bempde Johnstone. ¶ The Swedish physician Carl Peter Thunberg (1743–1828), travelled in the service of the Dutch East India Company (VOC) as a surgeon. He reached the Cape of Good Hope in 1772 and remained in South Africa for three years, undertaking three major expeditions into the interior and collecting over 300 new species of plants. He continued to Batavia and from there to the Dutch trading post Deshima at Nagasaki harbour in Japan. He was allowed to travel with a Dutch delegation under Arend Willem Feith to Yedo in 1776. He returned to Sweden by way of Java, where he spent six months, then to Ceylon, Holland, England and Germany, arriving back in Sweden in 1779 (Howgego p.1027). 'His narative affords considerable information respecting the natural history of the country, together with notes on the Hottentots, Kaffirs, and slaves, and general remarks on the state of the Cape at this period' (Mendelssohn p.499). Including a vocabulary of the Japanese language. ¶ A fine set. ¶ Cordier, B. J., col. 447; Alt-Japan-Katalog 1509; Laures 664; Mendelssohn II, p.499; SAB IV, p.505; . Landwehr, VOC, 342.

THOMPSON, George. Travels and adventures in Southern Africa. Comprising a view of the present state of the Cape Colony, with observations on the progress and prospects of the British emigrants. Second edition.London, Henry Colburn, 1827. 2 volumes. 8vo. Modern brown morocco (Bumpus Binders Oxford), spines lettered in gilt, top edges gilt. With folding map of South Africa and folding plans of Cape Town and Graaff-Reinet, 17 wood-engraved vignettes and 18 aquatint plates (including one double-page depicting 'Table Mountain from the parade'). (24),450; (6),430 pp. € 1650

¶ Second edition, published the same year as the first; with armorial bookplate of Hans Sauer. ¶ George Thompson (1796–1889) a merchant and traveller, resided at Cape Town as the representative and shareholder of a large London company. 'In 1821, Mr. Thompson made a six weeks 'excursion to Albany 'to examine into the prospects of the British emigrants' .. he visited Port Elizabeth ('then a hamlet of only three or four houses'), Uitenhage, Graham's Town, Bathurst, George, and many other districts and settlements ... In 1823 and 1824 he proceeded to the Orange River and Bechuanaland, and his account of these regions is recognised as the most important description of this part of the continent published in the early part of the nineteenth century. The third division of the work comprises a review of the condition 'of the Dutch and British inhabitants, of the agricultural, commercial, and financial circumstances of the country and of its adaption of further colonisation. ... This valuable work contains a number of excellent engravings, some of which were contributed by the naturalist Wehdemann, and others by Mr. De Meillon and Dr. Heurtley' (Mendelssohn II, p.494). ' His Travels provides valuable descriptions of the geography, history and natural history' (Howgego II, p.586). 'Both Thompson's 'Travels' and his illustrations stand high in the field of Africana' (Gordon-Brown, Pictorial Africana, p.230). ¶ Some browning as usual otherwise a fine copy. ¶ Mendelssohn II, p.494–495; SAB IV p.490; Abbey, Travel, 330 (2nd ed. only); Gay 3058.

¶ Judocus van Clichtove, geboren te Nieuwpoort in 1472, ging op 15-jarige leeftijd studeren aan de Sorbonne. "Toen Clichtove in 1543 te Chartres overleed was geen regel van zijn omvangrijk werk in zijn moedertaal overgezet." Niet in STCV of STCN. Het laatste sermoen behandelt de pestilentie."Deze Nederlandse overzetting van Schwellers selektie werd door de Kartuizers van Roermond op de markt gebracht in 1553–1554, toen de pest heerste in Keulen en Rijnland, om weldra Antwerpen en de Kempen te bereiken. In de dietse versie had het slotsermoen over de pestilentie dan ook een bijzondere aktualiteit." (A.Viaene). ¶ Rare Dutch translation (only three other copies known) of sermons by the Flemish preacher Judocus Clichtovius, native of the city of Nieuwpoort. Of special interest is the final sermon, which deals with pestilence. Extensive description of the plague, rampant in the German and Flemish lands at that time.

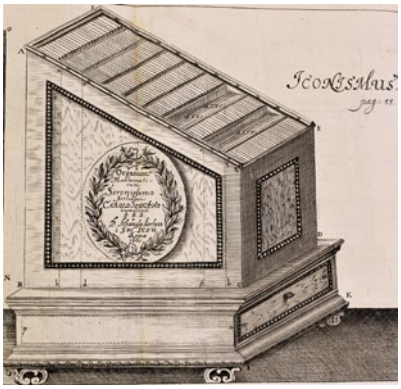
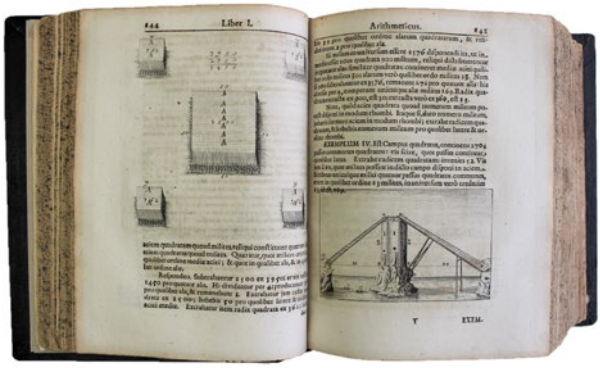
Two main works of Athanasius Kircher's pupil



¶ Rare first edition of this elaborate mathematical handbook explaining the use of ao. the 'mathematical organ', a computational machine devised by Athenasius Kircher to aid with the education of his pupil Karl Joseph von Habsburg. Caspar Schott, pupil and later colleague of Athenasius Kircher, took it upon himself to explain in great detail Kircher's Organum mathematicum. He also discusses one of his own inventions: the calculating device known as Schott's Cistula.

SCHOTT'S MATHEMATICAL ORGAN

SCHOTT, Caspar. Organum mathematicum libris IX. explicatum a P. G. Schotto S.J. , quo per paucas ac facillime parabiles tabellas, intra cistulam ad modum organi pneumatici constructam reconditas, pleraeque mathematicae disciplinae, modo novo ac facili traduntur. Würzburg, J.A. & W. Endter, 1668. in-4. [xxxiii],858,[10=-index] pp. With 2 frontisp.(portraits), 23 folding engravings, 40 engraved full-page plates, 28 folding tables, and numerous woodcuts and engravings in the text. Modern 'old style' leather. (new endpapers; frontispieces strengthened in inner margin; paper of first and last quires slightly tired or frayed; some quires a bit browned/foxed; some worming (for the largest part very inobtrusive) in inner margin and margin index w.a few letters text loss). € 2800



THE SCHOTT – KOCHANSKY CONNECTION

SCHOTT, Caspar. Cursus mathematicus. Accesserunt Theoreses mechanicae novae. Frankfurt M., J.M.Schönwetter, 1699. Folio. [xii],660,[56] pp. With frontispiece, 1 double table, 40 (1 double) plates, and numerous wood engraved figures in the text. Vellum (spine and corners renewed; small burn hole in 1 leaf; slightly browned; endpaper repaired; old owners entries, partly erased; small stamp on title; one plate (plate F) missing). € 850

¶ Handbook of the exact sciences, discussing arithmetics,geometrics, astronomy, astrology, time reckoning, geography,horography, mechanics, warfare, music etc. Schott taught mathematics in Würzburg, where this handbook was first published in 1661.The introductory poem and the concluding Theoreses mechanicae novae are by the hand of the great polish jesuit scientist Adam Adamandy Kochanski, who stayed in Würzburg with Schott in 1655, and was ten years later professor of mathematics in Mainz. ¶ Sommervogel VIII/p.907–908 (Schott) & IV/p.1139–1140 (Kochanski).

Very rare Sachsenspiegel in Dutch

ONLY 2 COPIES RECORDED

Den spieghel van sassen. Dat welcke tracterende ende inhoudende is alle keyserlike rechten, dyemen daghelicx meest ghebrukende is. Leiden, Jan Seversen, 1512. 4to. (19,5 × 13 cm.) 48 leaves. With large woodcut on titlepage and at the end a page-size woodcut (printers mark) of elephant and castle (with arms of Charles V and the city of Leiden). New half-leather binding, new endpapers. (first two leaves strenghtened in the gutter, later page numbering in upper corner). € 12 500

¶ Dutch adaptation of Eyke von Repgow's famous 'Sachsenspiegel', by a jurist called Epke: "Den Spiegel van sassen is overgheset en[de] ghetranslateert wten latijn in duytsche by eenen doctoer inden rechten gheheeten meester Epke". ONLY TWO COPIES KNOWN. (one in University Library Leiden, and ours). Nijhoff/Kronenberg 1934. The woodcut on the title-page, depicting the emperor in the midst of his counsel, was formerly attributed to Lucas van Leyden.

"DAS BADEN IST EIN GROSSER SEGEN!"

BRANDTS BUYS, Jan. Das Badeleben in Loznica. Z.pl. (ca. 1925). Charmant mapje met los voorplat en achterplat met linten met 15 losse kartonnetjes. Rijmtekst in het Duits en 14 (van 15?) silhouet-knipsels, voorstellend scenes uit het bad-leven van de componist Jan Brandts Buys met familieleden in Loznica. Namen die genoemd worden: Alma (= Alma Schapiro, tweede vrouw van de componist), Wera (= Wera Solander, zus van Alma), Hans (misschien zijn neefje), Mucki (=de schilder Johann 'Mucki' Seits) en diens hond Wulli. € 700

¶ The Dutch/Austrian composer Jan Brandts Buys moved to a villa in Loznica, on the Dalmatian coast near Dubrovnik, in 1920. He lived there with his second wife Alma and her mother. Alma's sister Wera came to live with them in 1926. According to his biographer Jan ten Bokum, Brandts Buys' years in Loznica were the unhappiest of his life. However the beach scenes depicted on the 14 silhouette-cuttings are humorous, and playful. The artist (possibly Alma or Wera Solander) could not be identified.

Simon VINKENOOG e.a. Parijs 1950–1954. Een collectie van zesenvijftig originele foto's uit het archief van Simon Vinkenoog. Vintage prints (6:6 cm.) vrijwel allemaal door Vinkenoog voorzien van jaartal op de achterzijde. Prachtige snapshots uit Vinkenoogs Parijse periode toen hij werkzaam was bij UNESCO als Special Request Documents Officer. Naast inkijkjes in Vinkenoogs woon- en werkruimte, biedt de collectie terras-impressies en worden de nodige geliefden en vrienden geportretteerd. De foto's brengen de intimiteit van het bohemien milieu ongedwongen in beeld en ademen een grote spontaniteit. ¶ Behalve Vinkenoog zelf zijn onder andere Hans Andreus, Hugo Claus, Rudy Kousbroek, Hanny Michaëlis, Gerard Reve, Bert Schierbeek, Edo Spier en de ouders van Vinkenoog te zien. Vermeldenswaardig is de verloren gewaande foto uit 1951, waarop Hugo Claus samen met een kwaad achterom kijkende non is te zien. Dit beeld zou het verhaal moeten bevestigen dat Claus indertijd op straat jonge nonnen provoceerde door te proberen ze de kap van het hoofd te trekken. € 2500

Foreword by John Dos Passos and texts by Lucio Costa and Oscar Niemeyer (in English, Spanish and French). 1959 Philadelphia, The Falcon Press, printed in 2000 numbered copies, 27,5:28 cm. With some spectacularly designed fold-out pages. The graphic design of Doorway to Brasilia is a collaboration between Brazilian artist and graphic designer Aloisio Magalhaes and American artist, designer and printer Eugene Feldman (The Falcon Press). In this experimental book photo-offset lithography is used as an art form. The printing medium chosen involves the use of continuous tone negatives without the conventional checkerboard screening process. These pages represent a test in the exposure control of aluminium offset plates and their ability to hold tones other than black. Experiments were performed using several plates made from the same negative, each with increased exposure. The heaviest plate was printed in the lightest color, the medium plate in grey, and the light plate in black. ¶ Binding slightly bumped at the extremities, but on the whole a good copy of this uncommon edition. € 1800

Scenes from THE STORY OF THE WESTERN WING. Chinese hand-painted storybook, late 18th century. 24 Original ink, watercolour and gouache paintings, depicting scenes from 'The Story of the Western Wing', a classic Chinese love story. The contemporary binding – wood, covered with patterned silk - shows traces of time. The fabric is faded and worn, revealing the wood's structure. Fragments of the title-label are still visible on the cover, but unfortunately the text has vanished completely. ¶ Twelve double pages, each with two images. The page size is 39:29,5 cm. The paintings are very well preserved, measuring 32:25,5 cm. ¶ This beautiful set of high quality paintings is a stunning example of a custom made storybook, likely commissioned by a wealthy Chinese estate. One of a kind! € 42 000

Jules DEELDER. SHOTSVILLE 26 aug 66. Handgeschreven brief uit Londen aan Simon en Reineke Vinkenoog en Olivier Boelen. 4p. 22,5:17,5 cm. geperforeerd. Associatief verslag van Deelders verblijf in Londen met het ongepubliceerde gedicht SHOTS (25 regels), waarvan fragmenten zijn terug te vinden in het lange gedicht Bright lights big city (voor het eerst in boekvorm verschenen in Moderne gedichten, 1979 De Bezige Bij). ¶ "Any news 'bout Brussels?/ Schrijf eens terug, we blijven hier nog een/ maand. Peter SCHMITT. The Thoughts Behind The Thoughts. Sentences by Peter Schmitt. 1970 London, published by the artist, 55 cards with letter-pressed-texts printed on elements of old prints, drawings, lithographs, etchings, photographs. In original wooden box (36:22:9 cm.) with sliding lid and perspex front, allowing the viewer to combine the cards into new meanings. Original edition of 100 numbered and signed copies. ¶ The Thoughts Behind The Thoughts is the precursor of the oracle card-set Oblique Strategies: Over One Hundred Worthwhile Dilemmas, that Peter Schmidt produced together with Brian Eno in 1974. € 2500

Guy SCHRAENEN. Guestbook. 1978 Berchem, Guy Schraenen éditeur. 23 original hand imprints made by some of the artists who visited the publisher's studio between 1976 and 1978. Contributors: Eduard Bal, Anna Banana, Artur Barrio, John Belis, Maurice Benhamou, Ulises Carrion, Cozette de Charmoy, Marc Dachy, Mirtha Dermisache, Bill Gaglione, Teun Hocks, Christopher Jones, Francois Lagarde, Michael Laub, Francoise Mairey, Jonier Marin, Antoni Miralda, Pieter Mol, Antonio Muntadas, Sef Peeters, Yves Pinguilly, Klaus Ritterbusch, Balint Szombathy. ¶ In loose-leaf folder 29,5:21 cm. ¶ 50 copies numbered and signed by Guy Schraenen. The first 25 copies were reserved for the collaborators. This is number 2 and belonged to Eduard Bal. € 1500

EXCEPTIONALLY BEAUTIFUL PAINTED "LEDERSCHNITTBAND" BY CHARLES MEUNIER

Paris, imprimé (par Firmin-Didot) pour Charles Meunier, 1908. 4to (335 × 245 mm). [IV], 191, [3] p. + 2 extra suites + prospectus.
Dark red morocco, on the covers very large inlaid "Lederschnitt" panels, heightened with paint and gold. Doublure of "citron" morocco, with a frame in black and gold and crosses in the corners. Watered silk first end leave, followed by a pair of marbled end leaves. Green, red and yellow silk end bands with matching ribbon marker. Edges gilt. In a "chemise" of half dark red morocco and a marbled slipcase. (Signed on turn in: "Ch. Meunier 1930" and on the panels "Ch. Meunier '30") € 7800

¶ Issued in 166 copies, this is one of the 50 copies on vélin J. Perrogot Arches (no. 28), (after 4 unique copies and 12 (5–16) with an original drawing of Schwabe.) ¶ This copy comes with 2 extra suites: one of the etchings on vélin J. Perrogot Arches "avant la lettre", and one suite on vélin mince containing the borders, the end pieces and the rejected decorations. ¶ Originally the first 16 copies were bound with all different "Lederschnitt" panels by Meunier. Later on Meunier bound some other copies of the luxury edition also in "Lederschnitt" bindings, maybe even improving the quality of the decoration, as with our copy is certainly the case if you compare it to older bindings on the same work. ¶ Carlos Schwabe (1866–1926) was a Swiss painter and printmaker and belongs to the most important artists of the Symbolism movement. ¶ LITERATURE: Duncan, Art nouveau and art deco bookbinding, p. 137–143 esp. ill. 178; Mahé II,573; Carteret, IV, 231; Monod 6803. ¶ (First leaves a bit loose due to tension in the binding; A fantastic copy in an exceptionally beautiful binding of Charles Meunier)

STUNNING ENGRAVINGS OF IVORY CUTTINGS IN A BEAUTIFUL ENGLISH LACEWORK BINDING

Amsterdam, Matthys Pool, 1727. 4to (293 × 216 mm). 106 (of 107, the last leaf containing the index is not present) leaves with an engraving or engraved text on the recto side.
English binding in lacework style from the 2nd half of the 18th century. Red morocco, tooled in gold. On the covers a broad lacework roll. Spine with 6 raised bands. Title in compartment 2, date and place of issue on black label in compartment 3. Over compartment 6 a later glued on supralibros, representing a lion on a crown ("on a chapeau gules turned up ermine a lion couchant argent") surrounded by 4 suns (First baron Suffield). The other compartments with a central tool and snake tools in the 4 corners. Board edges with a flower and leaf roll, turn ins with a flower roll. Double end bands of green, red and white silk. Green silk ribbon marker. End leaves of comb marbled paper. Edges gilt. € 2950

¶ This beautiful entirely engraved book, in which the stunning ivory cuttings and terra cotta figures of Francis van Bossuit are depicted, was clearly meant for an international market. The title pages and the lives of the artists are in 3 languages, French, English and Dutch. The explanations by the engravings are in French. In this copy every engraving is on a separate plate. ¶ Francis van Bossuit (1635–1692) was born in Brussels and moved after a long stay in Italy finally to Amsterdam. He was one of the most outstanding ivory cutters of his time and highly esteemed in Europe. Matthys Pool (1676–1740) was a Dutch engraver and art dealer, who received a part of his education in Paris. In 1708 he married the daughter of the Amsterdam painter and art collector Barent Graat (1628–1709). Pool also published the engravings for Gerard Delaraisse's Schilder boek. ¶ The book consists of: a title page in French (I), a title page in Dutch and English (II), a dedication leaf to Ieronimo Tonnemans (A), a portrait of Francis Bossuit and 2 engraved text leaves with his life (III–V), a portrait of Barent Graat and 2 engraved text leaves with his life (VI–VIII) and 89 plates with each 1 engraving (IX–CIII). Six engravings bearing a double number. ¶ PROVENANCE: 1) On the spine glued leather supralibros (lion on a crown) of Harbord Harbord, 1st baron Suffield of Gunton, Norfolk (1734–1810). For the tool: British armorial Bindings, tool 2. 2) The armorial bookplate of "Edward Lord Suffield" with the motto: "Aequanimiter", Edward Harbord was the 3rd Baron of Suffield (1781–1835). Known as a radical politician and vehemently acting against slavery. 3) The bookplate of Gerrit Komrij (1944–2012) Dutch writer and literary critic. ¶ LITERATURE: Cicognara 272. ¶ (French title page (I) cut out along the engraving and mounted; index leaf not present; board edges and joints a bit rubbed; back cover gold worn away some square centimetres; else a clean large paper copy on thick paper, with sharp impressions, in a beautiful English lacework binding)

DUTCH BIBLE WITH ELABORATE SILVER PARTS CONTAINING AN UNRECORDED EDITION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

BIBLIA. Dat is de gantsche H. Schrifture vervattende alle de canonyke boekken des Ouden en des Nieuwen Testaments. Old Testament with an engraved title page. New Testament with a vignette representing the adoration of the child Jesus in the cradle. ¶ (Title page New Testament: Amsterdam, H. Burgers, C. Oterlyk, Ph. Losel, wed. P. Verschueren, H. Brandt, Jannetje Spanseerder), 1746. 12mo (172 × 105 mm). 416 leaves (Old Testament), 132 leaves (New Testament). ¶ BOUND UP WITH: Het boek der psalmen, nevens de gezangen bij de hervormde kerk van Nederland in gebruik. ¶ Haarlem, Johannes Enschedé en zoonen, 1776. 12mo. 131, [1] leaves (last leaf blank). ¶ Black leather with an imitation sharkskin pattern over wooden boards. Ornamented with a set of cast silver parts all decorated with a head in a shell and leaf work, consisting of 4 corner pieces on each board, 2 clasps and in the middle of the upper side of the boards a catch with a ring to attach a chain (chain not present any more). Red and white end bands. Two green silk ribbon markers. Marbled end leaves. Edges gilt. € 1750

¶ The edition of the New Testament not in STCN or Biblia Sacra. STCN gives only 1 copy of the Old Testament in the UB Amsterdam. Their copy however is without the New Testament. The collation of the New Testament is A–L12. Fingerprint: 174612 - b1 A2 2$do : b2 L7 n$ ¶ On the inside of the clasps is engraved: Douwe Marten 1747. This means that the clasps are older than this binding and have been reused later. ¶ (One clasp a bit damaged; chain not present any more; else a very fine copy)

PLAYFULL ETCHINGS BY DE MARE AFTER CHALON UNCUT LARGE PAPER COPY IN 4TO

CHALON, Christina. Tweeëndertig stuks studien of ordonnantien naar de origineele tekeningen van juffrouwe Christina Chalon, in het koper gebracht door Pieter de Mare. With 32 etchings on 20 plates by De Mare after Chalon in the style of Adriaen van Ostade. Title pages within a typographical border. Leiden, K. en P. Delfos, 1779. 4to [20] plates. ¶ INTERLEAVED IN: BERKHEY, J. le Francq van. Zinspelende gedigjes op de geestige printjes ge-etst door Pieter de Mare na de teekeningen van Christina Chalon. Leyden, Frans de Does Pz, 1779. 4to (285 × 215 mm). 32 p. Half calf. Spine with 5 raised bands bordered by a double fillet. Edges uncut. € 995

¶ No complete copy in the STCN. ¶ The prints appeared probably first in print, and the text by Berkhey later. This explains the two title pages and the fact that the 2 copies of the 4to Zinspelende gedigjes in STCN are without the plates, and in the Hiler collection only the Tweeëndertig stuks is present. Later in the same year appeared a smaller 8vo edition, which was reissued in 1793 and 1806. ¶ The drawings of Catharina Chalon (1749–1808), who worked in the style of Adriaen van Ostade, were very much appreciated and collected in her time in Holland and also in France and England. She mostly depicted popular scenes: farmers, mothers with children, street life etc. In 1784 she married the composer Christian Friedrich Rüppe. ¶ LITERATURE: Hiler, Bibliography of costume p. 156; Thieme-Becker 6, p. 340. ¶ (Spine ends and covers rubbed, one leather cornerpiece lacking; lacks title shield; book block partly with many small stains; still a desirable copy of the rare 1st editon on large 4to paper)

AN ENGRAVED GALANT MINIATURE ALMANAC

L'apropos galant. Année 1823. With 8 engravings. Paris, 1823. 128mo (28 × 19 mm). 64 p. Red morocco, tooled in gold. On the covers a fillet border with in the centre a bird's nest, tree and flying bird. Flat spine with a vertical roll. Edges gilt. € 350

¶ Entirely engraved rare almanac and songbook. The text within a simple border. ¶ Our copy is wihout an address. Grand-Carteret mentions 2 copies, one with the address "chez Marcilly fils" and one with "chez Desrosiers". ¶ Worldcat locates 5 copies, 2 in Germany, 1 in Cambridge and 2 in the USA. ¶ LITERATURE: Grand-Carteret no. 1970; Welsh no. 275; Not in A matter of size. ¶ (Misbound; text at the frontside sometimes touched by the binder's knife; else a very fine copy)

THE MONUMENTAL 1732 PICART OVID LAVISHLY BOUND BY SUENONIUS MANDELGREEN

OVIDIUS. De gedaant-wisselingen van P. Ovidius Naso in het Latyn en Nederduitsch nieulyx vertaalt, en te zamen in het licht gegeven, door Isaak Verburg. [...] Nevens omstandige aantekeningen tot opheldering der verdichtselen, door Antonius Banier [...] Met een groot getal keurlyke prentverbeeldingen door B. Picart. With an engraved frontispiece, 2 printer's devices, 1 engraved coat of arms and 130 large engravings in the text (ca. 180 × 230 mm) by Picart, Lebrun, Punt, Wandelaar etc., engraved by Bouttats, Folkema, Boucher etc.
Amsterdam, R. en J. Wetstein en W. Smith, 1732. 2 parts in 1 volume. Large 2° (490 × 315 mm). [XVIII], 1–248, [II], 249–524, [4] p.
Light brown calf, mottled and speckled in different colours, tooled in gold. On the covers 3 rectangular compartments and a polygonal centre compartment, each stained in a different pattern. Spine with 8 raised bands. Red title shield in compartment 2, the other compartments in the centre an ornament composed of small tools, surrounded by dots and at the sides several tools. Board edges and turn ins with a decorative roll. Double end bands of green and white silk. Marbled end leaves. Edges gilt and gauffered with arch patterns and dots at the ends and in the middle of the front edge. € 3800

¶ One of the most beautiful illustrated books printed in Holland in the 18th century. Lavishly illustrated by Bernard Picart and others. The engravings in this copy in strong impressions. The text is printed in two columns, Latin and Dutch next to each other. ¶ The binding is by Suenonius Mandelgreen from Middelburg (active 1736–1758), who can be regarded as one of the best Dutch 18th century bookbinders. From the tools used on this book 4 rolls and 8 tools are ascribed to Mandelgreen, one large fleuron appears as S1 by the Rosette roll bindery and one (a large dot) is not attested yet for Mandelgreen. ¶ LITERATURE: Cohen Ricci 768; Brunet III, 599; Geerebaert CXXII, 39; catalogus Ovidius herschapen 41; Storm van Leeuwen, DDB IIb, p. 602–628. ¶ (Some pages marginal water stain; a few stains in the text; corners a bit bumped; lower head cap lacking; some fragments lacking on the board edges; joints a bit weak; in all a good copy of this monumental edition in an exceptional binding of Suenonius Mandelgreen)

LIEUTENANT COLONEL RUDOLPH BENTINCK'S ARMY JOURNALS IN THE NETHERLANDS, THE MEDITERRANEAN AND PORTUGAL: INSPECTING FORTIFICATIONS, MINES, TROOPS AND YOUNG LADIES

[Maastricht, Bois-le-Duc, Bergen op Zoom, Namur, etc., 7 July – 3 September 1771 & The Mediterranean and Portugal, 23 May – 18 August 1774]. 2 matching journals. 2° (32.5 × 20.5 cm). Two manuscript journals in French, written in brown ink on laid paper. Contemporary coarse brown paper wrappers, with the 1771 journal in loose bifolia (never sewn) inserted. € 5950

¶ Two journals kept by the Dutch Lieutenant Colonel Volkier Rudolph Bentinck (1738–1820), usually called Rudolph or sometimes Rudolphus, in the Dutch and British army, who had earlier fought alongside George Washington in the British army in America. They give an intimate and very personal view of daily life in the army, especially social life. It does show Bentinck inspecting fortifications (at least once climbing to the top) and mines in Maastricht (including the fort on "Montagne de St Pierre" [= Sint-Pietersberg]), Den Bosch (Bois-le-Duc), Bergen op Zoom, Namur (also an armaments foundry) and elsewhere. It shows his enthusiasm for Captain Schoester's collection of battle plans and he later views fortification plans with Colonel Carel Diederik du Moulin (1727–1793), a well-known Dutch fortifications engineer. ¶ Rudolph Bentinck had served as a Lieutenant in the British Royal American Army from 1756 to 1762, during the Seven Years' War, often known in the United States as the French and Indian War, when he fought side by side with Colonel George Washington, the future first president of the United States. On his return he served as a Lieutenant Colonel in Jersey from 1769 to 1771 (also Guernsey according to the NNWB). The present journals fill part of a gap in his biography: that of 1771 begins in The Hague, where he took a Dutch commission for two years in July 1771 to inspect the fortifications in Venloo, Maastricht and Namur, but the 1774 journal shows he was in British service on Menorca by May 1774, when the journal begins with his departure (Bentinck, Echte stukken, 1784, notes his return from Menorca on 29 May 1775). He left British service in 1776 and returned to the Dutch army. He was granted an Overijsel knighthood as Heer van Schoonheeten in 1777 and made a Baron in 1819. ¶ Although neither these journals nor an earlier American one (formerly kept with this one and written in a similar hand) names its author, the events in the American journal clearly identify him as Lieutenant Rudolph Bentinck, who visited William Bentinck, 2nd Duke of Portland, on his way to America. ¶ A contemporary manuscript note on the front wrapper reads "Journael zedert 1771 | en een van 1762", and Bentinck's American journal of 1756–1762 was formerly loosely inserted with the present journals of 1771 and 1774. ¶ In very good condition, with only the wrapper showing some wear and tear at the extremities. Two detailed and very personal journals of a Dutch Lieutenant Colonel in the Netherlands (1771) and the Mediterranean and Portugal (1774), interesting for its accounts of fortifications, mines and troops, but even more for the social life of officers and their relations with women, from princesses to servants. ¶ [2], [2 blank], [11], [1 blank]; 18, [6 blank] pp. ¶ For background information: V.R. NICE ITALIAN ATLAS OF THE DUTCH REPUBLIC AND ITS POSSESSIONS OVERSEAS

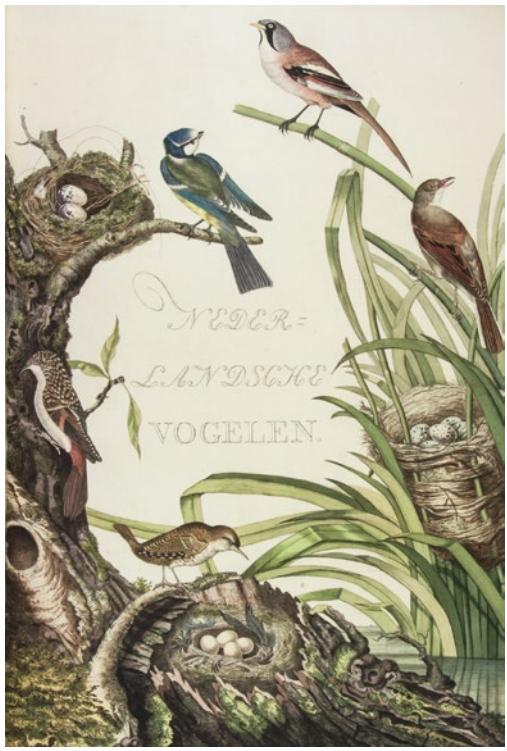
First edition of a nice atlas of the northern provinces of the Low Countries (the Dutch Republic, including East Friesland), together with maps and views of the Republic's possessions overseas (Cape of Good Hope, Mauritius, Colombo, Galle, Batavia, etc.), published in the series Bibliotheca universale, here complete with all the explanatory text leaves, engraved titles, maps, plates and views, as called for in the index (leaf 133v, with several mistakes in the foliation). The atlas was published by Vincenzo Maria Coronelli (1650–1718), widely recognised as one of Italy's most famous and greatest cartographers, and cosmographer to the Republic of Venice. He also issued the present atlas together with that of the Southern Netherlands, the whole with letterpress title, Teatro della guerra, and a 1706 Naples imprint. ¶ With wormholes in spine and in margins, especially in first part and last few leaves; some water stains and some slight foxing and browning. A good copy. ¶ 11 text leaves (ff. 6, 8–14, 116, 118, 133 (Index)). ¶ Armao 62; Vinciana 1339; cf. Kretschmer, Lexikon Gesch. Kartogr., I, 146–7; WorldCat (5 copies).

PARUS CAERULEUS.

FAMOUS WORK ON BIRDS IN THE NETHERLANDS, WITH 250 HAND-COLOURED PLATES

NOZEMAN, Cornelius, Martinus HOUTTUYN and Jan Christiaan SEPP. Nederlandsche vogelen; volgens hunne huishouding, aert, en eigenschappen beschreeven.
Amsterdam, Jan Christiaan Sepp (volumes III–V: and son), 1770–1829. 5 volumes. Imperial 2° (52 × 35.5 cm). With hand-coloured engraved title-page to each volume, 250 hand-coloured copper-engraved plates (50 in each volume), and some woodcut tailpieces. Contemporary half calf, gold-tooled spine. € 38 500

¶ First edition of a famous and beautifully illustrated ornithological work, one of the most important works on birds in the Netherlands. The text was written by the Dutch remonstrant preacher and naturalist Cornelis Nozeman (1720–1786), and after his death continued by the naturalist Martinus Houttuyn (1720–1798). As the title suggests, the work is restricted to native Dutch birds, which are depicted in 250 hand-coloured engravings. They show a wide variety of birds, including waterfowl, poultry, birds of prey, songbirds etc., mostly shown in their natural surroundings and sometimes accompanied by their nests and/or eggs.



Nozeman starts his descriptions with information from earlier sources, followed by the bird's appearance, characteristics and way of living, partly based on his own observations, occasionally even mentioning the taste of the bird. The engravings were made by Jan Christaan Sepp (1739–1811). After his death the last two volumes were finished by his son Jan Sepp (1778–1853), probably accompanied by the zoologist C.J. Temminck. The work was published in instalments of 5 or 6 and later 4 plates a year, starting in 1770 and completed in 1829 and therefor took over 59 years. Because of this long period, complete copies of these series are rather rare. ¶ In very good condition and only slightly trimmed, with only the tissue guards slightly foxed. Bindings restored along the extremities and with the corners bumped, otherwise good. ¶ [10], 92; [4], II, [2], 93–194, IV; [8], 195–294; [8], IV, 295–394; [4], VI, 395–500 pp. Zimmer, pp. 469–470; Fine Bird Books, p. 98; Landwehr, Coloured plates 145.

Echeverria & Wilkie, 801/22; Fay, p. 40; Monaghan 503; Sabin 17501. ¶ The scarce first edition of this little-known work by Crèvecoeur, which was not translated into English until the 1960s. It is of course not a translation but an original work by Crèvecoeur. ¶ Crèvecoeur was of noble birth and first came to America in 1754. He served in Canada during the Seven Years' War, travelled widely throughout the Great Lakes and Ohio regions and American colonies, and finally settled on a farm near the frontier in Orange County, NY. He became an American citizen in 1764, and he served as French consul in New York from 1783 to 1790. His "letters of an American Farmer," published in English in 1782, made him an instant celebrity in Europe and the book was the first best-seller by an American author in Europe. ¶"Crèvecoeur spent nearly a quarter of a century in America, saw Washington, in 1774, come to the first Congress fresh from his farm, witnessed his extraordinary career, and, in 1797, saw him retire to the private life of an agriculturist. His experience, therefore, enables him to give much information and personal gossip not readily found elsewhere. (.....) This work is distinguished by its details on the aboriginal tribes, and their gradual disappearance. No other writer has so well described the Indian great councils, or assemblies, where they deliberate on their public interests" (Monthly Review, quoted in Sabin). ¶ The work furthermore provides information on central New York, Niagra Falls, deals with (new settlements in) Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, the two Carolina's and some discussion on Canada, there are observations on the flora and fauna, political history, the city of New York, the whole constituting a rich source on the 18th-century history of America. ¶ The frontispiecce is a portrait of George Washington, further portraits are of Kesketomah, an Ondondaga sachem, Koohassen, an Oneida warrior, a map entitled "Carte de la Partie Septentrionale des Etats-Unis", a map entitled "Plan de la Cataracte de Niagara et de l'Isthme qui separe les lacs Erie et Ontario", and a map entitled "Carte de la Partie Meridionale des Etats-Unis", a plate "Fortification des Anciens Indigenes" and a plate "Plan d'un Ancien Camp Retranché", two folding views of Niagara Falls, plus some tables both in- and outside text. - A very nice copy of a scarce and interesting work.

Eighteenth-century full red morocco, spine gilt in compartments, gilt lettering, gilt triple fillet on sides, all edges gilt, a bit rubbed. € 850

MacDonald & Hargreaves, 27; Willems 1048, stating that this particular edition was printed by Blaeu. ¶ One of three Elzevier editions from 1647, this being the one with a different engraved title, issued without the portrait of Hobbes present in the other two editions, but with the prefatory letters by Gassendi and Mersenne which are absent in the other two editions. The first edition was published in 1642 and is almost impossible to find, these 1647 editions being the first ones obtainable for a wider audiance. ¶ De Cive is the book were all the foundations for his later "Leviathan" are to be found: the observation "bellum omnium in omnes" (war of all against all) and the equally famous "homo homini lupus est" (man is a wolf to other man). It consists of three parts, the first treating the state of nature (entitled "libertas"); the second treats the necessity of the creation of a stable state or government (entitled "imperium"), and the final section, entitled "Religio" contains theological reflections and arguments in support of the first two sections. ¶ De Cive is one of Hobbes major works, the first edition, and this edition, were published in Latin, the first English edition appeared in 1651. ¶ Hobbes had planned to write a comprehensive philosophy in three sections: De Corpore, De Homine, and De Cive, in this order, but he wrote the last section first because the political situation in England seemed to him urgently to require it. De Cive was printed in such a limited number of copies that Gassendi declared they excited rather than satisfied thirst. The fact that the book was condamned in 1683 by the University of Oxford, and included in a Decretum of 16 June 1654 published at Rome testifies to the fact that the first edition was hardly known at the time. A second edition was published 5 years later in which edition he had inserted a number of notes in answer to objections and which included a weighty 'Preface to the Reader', giving the first distinct public intimation of the relation in which the treatise stood to a general philosophical scheme, and explaining the occasion of its appearance out of due order (MacDonald & Hargreaves). - Margins a bit short but not affecting text, the last blanks (R11-R12) preserved, a nice copy in red morocco.

Hollstein XXXV nos. 438–445. ¶ First edition of this humorous depiction of 17th-century life in The Hague by the great Dutch painter, Adriaen van de Venne. The fine frontispiece and plates were engraved following his drawings by Daniél van Bremden, Pieter de Jode the Younger, Pieter Serwouters, and others. Several of the engravings had appeared the previous year in van de Venne's Sinnedroom, also published in The Hague. Van de Venne was one of the most prolific illustrators of Dutch 17th-century emblem books, most notably those composed by Jacob Cats. There are two issues of page 1: one spells "krijghen" in line 3, the other "krijgen" (as here). ¶ This is a beautifully illustrated "mirror" of Dutch seventeenth-century life. Based upon genre scenes at the annual The Hague Fair, van de Venne captured attitudes and human behaviour that were designed as a guide for proper manners and morals. The work (the title is sometimes also translated as "Scenes of the Laughable World") comments on the attractions and various types of visitors at the famous annual fair in The Hague and is probably the best example of his work as an author, as well as including some of his finest book illustrations. The theme is explored largely through the device of a dialogue between the young farmer Tamme Lubbert (Soft Johnny) and his sweetheart. They comment on the attractions and visitors at the famous annual fair in The Hague, with a sidebar containing moralizing proverbs and sayings printed in the columns on the outer margins. ¶ Painter, draftsman, and poet, Adriaen van de Venne rejected the international grand manner based on antique models and created a new style based on Holland's own idioms. Although largely self-taught, he also studied with local painters who may have taught him the grisaille technique—painting in shades of gray—that characterizes his later work. By 1614 he was in Middelburg, where his earliest dated paintings show the influence of the Flemish Jan Brueghel the Elder's landscapes and of Jan's father Pieter Bruegel the Elder's satirical, moralizing peasant vignettes. ¶ Van de Venne began working as a book illustrator, print designer, political propagandist, and poet, collaborating with his brother Jan, a well-known publisher and art dealer. Holland's leading writers employed Van de Venne, whose illustrations contributed greatly to the popularity of Dutch emblem books, which combined pictures and prose to present a moral lesson. After moving to The Hague and joining the Guild of Saint Luke in 1625, Van de Venne was probably employed at court. In 1640 he became the guild's dean. He continued his book and printmaking projects and painted most of his well-known grisaille paintings, many depicting the destitute and maimed. - Somewhat browned and spotted throughout, a few pages with a faint stain in the lower half, mainly confined to the lower blank margin, a handwritten exlibris with the date 1656 in the blank lower margin of the title-page, copy with good margins and fine impressions.

Gerrit KOMRIJ
The Ultimate Collection!
The complete output of Gerrit Komrij as a writer – well, 99% – and more. € 37 500

¶ Gerrit Komrij (1944–2012) was one of the most versatile authors of the Dutch twentieth century. He was a poet, novelist, playwright, translator, book reviewer, television critic, gay rights activist and a passionate polemist. Aside from his prolific output of books and contributions to books and magazines, Komrij was responsible for a gargantuan harvest of bibliophile works in a bewildering variety. ¶ This collection was amassed more or less under the radar, over a period of four decades. Twenty-five crates full with books, manuscripts, letters, posters, photos, curios, serials, clippings and documentation, our collection counts more than a thousand separate items, from the humble sixth and seventh printings to great rarities in richly gilt full vellum, enriched with artist's works. ¶ From an original wax crayon drawing by 15-year old Gerrit Komrij in 1959, to the silver fountain pen with which he wrote everything between 1972 and 1977. From his self-published 1963 debut Dekonstruktie in vier delen to the cheerful Literaire Loodgieters masquerade publication Per boot van Venetië naar Padua (issued in only 12 copies), in two variants: one regular and one archive copy. ¶ Spectacular artist's bookbindings: De Phoenix spreekt in full vellum with a large sun design in gold over the entire binding, one of three copies of Mijn minnaars in limp vellum, and Peper en zout in full leather with brass inlay. ¶ Tiny print runs? Badkamer, Fax aan Agaath, In liefde bloeyende, Ik ben een bijl, Pseudo-Ambrosia. Handwritten poems issued with original art by Hans Broekhuijsen and Herman Gordijn. Correspondence about book production with Willem Huijer, Ger Kleis and Theo Sontrop. Printing proofs, manuscripts. In summary: almost everything in almost all printings. And more. Fit for your museum, your school, your library, your City Hall, your Wunderkammer, your castle. Feel free to ask for more information.

FINE ANTIQUE MAPS AND CHARTS – TOWN VIEWS – PRINTS, DRAWINGS AND WATERCOLOURS

"Carta particolare dell'Isole di Islandia è Frislandia, con l'Isolette di Fare". Copper engraving on two joined sheets by Antonio Lucini, published as part of the Arcano del Mare in 1646–47 by Sir Robert Dudley. Rare first edition. Size: 48,5 × 76 cm. The map shows Iceland beautifully engraved, both in how the coast is depicted, but also in the fact that there are 265 place names on Iceland, giving it a sense of accuracy. Many of the place names, however, are fabricated or repeated. The shape of Iceland resembles some sort of creature. Most likely the map of Joris Carolus, published by Jodocus Hondius, was used as its base. To the lower left is "Frislandia", a phantom island that often appeared on maps of the area. The only place marked on the interior of the map is the fire-spewing mount Hekla, there are no rivers or lakes and gone are the mountain chains that were a prominent feature on Dutch maps. In fact, Dudley broke completely with the contemporary style of charts. He showed lines of latitude and longitude and omitted all compass lines. In doing so, his purpose was more intellectual than practical: techniques for determining longitude at sea were not refined until more than two centuries later. Conversely, and oddly, there are no rhumb lines or sounding depths. This map is a combination, beautiful in its way, but not very useful. The Arcano del Mare is considered one the "greatest atlases of the world" and one of the most complex ever produced. First published in 1646 when its author, Robert Dudley, was 73, it was not only the first sea atlas of the world (not just Europe), but also the first to use Mercator projection; the earliest to show magnetic deviation; the first to show currents and prevailing winds; the first to expound the advantages of 'Great Circle Sailing' (the shortest distance between two points on a globe); and, perhaps less importantly, the first sea-atlas to be compiled by an Englishman, albeit abroad in Italy. € 6500

Ziegenfuss II, 605 Heinrich Eberhard Gottlob Paulus (1 September 1761–10 August 1851) was a German theologian and critic of the Bible. He is known as a rationalist who offered natural explanations for the biblical miracles of Jesus. Paulus was a professor of theology and oriental languages at the University of Jena (1789–1803?), then professor at the University of Würzburg (1803?–1807). He spent time in Bamberg, Nürnberg and Ansbach before becoming professor of exegesis and church history at the University of Heidelberg (1811?–44), where he was instrumental in hiring Hegel in 1816. His theological rationalism greatly influenced Hegel's own theology. As a Lutheran in the Age of Enlightenment, he firmly believed in the autonomy of the individual and freedom of the individual (through reason) from the dogma of the church ¶ Boeknr: 629567. € 500

¶ First edition, very rare with the three supplementary parts. A little known work, disregarded in his own time, but praised for its original application of mathematics to economic problems. Buquoy here in this his major book shows himself an independent follower of Adam Smith, though he advocates proper regulation of production and consumption for countries in unfavourable geographical situations. It is one of the earliest German books including a mathematical approach to economics. DESCARTES, René. Brieven, aan veele hoog-geagte personen, van verscheide ampten, geschreven: handelende van de over-natuur-kunde, natuur-kunde, zede-kunst, genees-kunst, wis-kunst, zang-kunst, en werk-daad, enz. Zijnde ten hoogsten dienstig, om de voorgaande werken des schrijvers te verligten, en duidelijker te doen verstaan. Door Renatus Des-Cartes beschreven: en van J.H.Glasemaker vertaalt. t'Amsterdam, by Jan ten Hoorn 1692. 3 parts in 1 volume, the first 2 parts continuously paginated. 4to. [VIII],664,268p. With numerous woodcut figures in the text. Contemp. vellum. With the bookplate of the well-known Amsterdam book collector Bob Luza.
¶ Second Dutch edition. ¶ Glazemaker 20. € 2500

LA JONCHERE, Etienne Lecuyer de. Système d'un nouveau gouvernement en France. Seconde edition. A Amsterdam, chez François le Bon 1720. 4 volumes in 1. 12mo (15,5 × 9 cm). [II],30,[2],96; [II],156; [II],192; [II],200,[4]p. With 4 folding tables (small tear in 2 tables). Contemp. calf, gilt back with red label, few old neat repairs, little rubbed. A few spots and some light staining, old name on title.
¶ A notoriously rare proposal for financial and governmental reforms similar to the scheme of John Law. The extreme rarity of this book has been explained by Law's eagerness to destroy as many copies as he could find to hide the fact that much of his own ideas were contained in this book. The mention of 'Seconde edition' is probably fictious. WorldCat does not locate any copy printed before 1720. The 1970 EDHIS reprint also from this 'second' edition. The name and place of the publisher are probably fictious as well. ¶ INED 2517. Not in Kress, Goldsmiths', Einaudi or Mattioli. Palgrave 1,p.537. € 6000

JUGLAR, Clement. Des crises commerciales et de leur retour périodique en France, en Angleterre et aux Etats-Unis. Deuxième édition. Paris, Guillaumin 1889. XX,560p. With 17 mostly double-page tables and 7 large folding tables at end. Finely bound in recent half morocco, marbled sides and endpapers, t.e.g., orig. printed wrappers (stained and with some repairs) preserved.
¶ Second, considerably enlarged edition of a pioneering work on business cycle analysis, originally published in 1860. In this second edition Juglar continues his study of industrial fluctuations up to 1882. Juglar 'must be ranked, as to talent and command of scientific method, among the greatest economists of all times'. ¶ Einaudi 3095. Mattioli 1762. New Palgrave II,p.1037. Schumpeter p.1123. € 1500

ONE OF TWO COMPLETE COPIES KNOWN

DEN GROTEN HERBARIUS met al sijn figuren die ortus sanitatis genaemt is om die crachten vā alle cruyden te wetené…. Antwerpen, (Claes) de Grave, June 1526. Folio (270 × 195mm). 188 Leaves, with over 400 woodcuts. Early 20th century red morocco, richly gilt decorated sides, gilt decorated spine in 6 compartments, gilt edges. € 31 000

¶ One of two complete copies known (see Hunt 24). The copy of F.W.T. Hunger, famous collector of early herbals, with his bookplate. His library was auctioned in 2 catalogues by Menno Herzberger in 1952. The present copy was number 31 of the first catalogue and sold to Rosenthal (according to manuscript note written in our catalogue). F.W.T. Hunger (1874–1952) 'devoted himself exclusively to the history of botanical sciences, and especially to the classical and 16th century herbals… In 1917 he was called to the University at Leyden, as a Lecturer… later on he became Director of the Institute for the History of medicine and Biology at that town. In his quality of botanico-historian he published numerous articles about prominent scientists of the past…' (From the introduction of the auction catalogue). ¶ First two leaves with paper repair at the outer margin with loss of some letters, the following two leaves with paper repair at the outer margin, followed by a few leaved with minor repair at corner(s), last leaf probably taken from a shorter copy, browned and some paper damage with loss of a very few letters. At the end bound in 10 final leaves of the 1533 edition by C. de Grave of the same work. Apart from the mentioned defects a good copy, with some occasional browning. An incomplete copy of the present edition was offered in the famous Klebs catalogue 'A catalogue of early herbals…. of Dr. Karl Becher' by L'Art Ancien in 1925. The present work is a Dutch translation of the 'Gart der Gesundheit' first published by Peter Schoeffer in 1485. It is the second edition by Claes de Grave. "In Dr. Klebs's opinion the 'Gart der Gesundheit' was a landmark in the history of botanical illustration, one which marked perhaps the greatest single step ever made in that art; its delineations of plants, breaking away from the traditional stylized woodcut, were not only unsurpassed, but unequalled for nearly half a century. Textually, too it was an original concept, giving a compendium of the whole pharmacy of the early printed works…" (Hunt 5). "Claes de Grave's book is a literal translation of the German edition by Peter Schöffer (Mainz 1485)..." (Botany in the Low Countries, 7).¶ Nissen BBI, 2290; Hunt 24; Nijhoff-Kronenberg 1052; Botany in the Low Countries (end of the 15th century - ca. 1650), 7.

HOUTTUYN, M. Houtkunde, behelzende de afbeeldingen van meest alle bekende, in- en uitlandsche houten die tot den huis- en scheepsbouw.... Abbildung in- und Ausländischer Höltzer.../ A representation of Inland and Foreign wood.../ Réprésentation des Bois, des arbes & arbrisseaux tant du Pays qu'Etrangers.../ Icones Lignorum exoticorum et nostratium.... Amsterdam, Jan Christiaan Sepp, 1773–1795. 4to (305 × 245mm). With engraved hand-coloured frontispiece and 106 fine hand-coloured engraved plates, each with a page of explanation. Contemporary red half morocco, richly gilt ornamented spine with green gilt lettered label, supplement unbound. € 19 000

¶ A large uncut and fine copy with the very rare supplement. The most attractive book on wood ever published. It contains over 600 cross-sections of European and exotic woods and is a guide to the identification of woods by their grains and colours. Sepp based his work on Michael Seligmann's 'Abbildung in- und ausländischer Hölzer' Nuremberg 1773–78. He added 42 plates showing timbers from the West Indies, drawn from the Cabinet of Reverend Hazeu at Rotterdam. Finally Martinus Houttuyn was enlisted to describe 80 specimens of timber in his own collection, then to prepare notes and indexes in five languages and a supplement. As the book was issued in parts, whenever a suite of plates had been engraved and coloured, copies are found in varying degrees of completeness. The text is in

Dutch, English, German, French and Latin. As the book was published over a long period complete copies as the present one are a great rarity. The final title 'Houtkunde, behelzende afbeeldingen van meest alle bekende, in- en uitlandsche houten die tot den huis- en scheepsbouw...' published in 1791 is different from the one published in 1773 when the work started 'Afbeelding van In- en Uitlandsche houten, zo wel van boomen als heesters....'. For this reason the work is sometimes quoted under this title. Landwehr, Studies in Dutch books with coloured plates, gives a detailed collation of the work, which matches exactly with our copy. The complete English title is: 'A representation of inland and foreign wood, as well trees and shrubs, which are collected by lovers of natural history in their cabinets of natural curiosities for use and pleasure. According to their inward properties and natural colours'. The rare supplement, with a printed title has some slight staining at the outer upper and lower corner of the printed title. ¶ Nissen BBI, 939, Landwehr 84; Pritzel 4291.

ROESEL VAN ROSENHOF, A.J. De Natuurlyke Historie der Insecten; Voorzien met naar 't Leven getekende en gekoleurde Plaaten. Volgens eigen ondervinding beschreeven ... Met zeer nutte en fraaie Aanmerkingen verrykt, door C.F. Kleemann. Uit den echten Hoogduitschen Druk ... vertaald. Haarlem en Amsterdam, C.H. Bohn en H. de Wit, (1764–1788). 4 volumes (bound in 8) and supplement. Large-4to (275 × 220mm). With 3 handcoloured engraved frontispieces, 1 engraved portrait of Rösel and 385 handcoloured engraved plates (printed on 314 leaves). Contemporary half calf, spine with gilt lines and red and brown gilt lettered labels, marbled sides. € 13 000

¶ A nice uniformly bound copy, including the rare supplement. This Dutch edition is more attractive than the original German edition, which was published in Nuremberg from 1746–1792. The Dutch edition is printed on almost twice as large, much thicker, paper, and has far better colouring. The translation was made by C. Kleemann, the son-in-law of the author. He added new material and the excellent colouring of the plates is by him and his wife Katharina Barbara Roesel von Rosenhof. "Roesel, who studied at first with his father and then with his uncle Wilhelm, an animal painter in Merseburg, later became a pupil of the famous Preisler in Nuremberg. After living in Copenhagen from 1726 to 1728 he returned to Nuremberg for good, and there, besides painting portraits and drawings, he applied himself in particular to the study of nature. He collected insects, their eggs and larvae, studied the process of hatching, pupation, and emergence, and painted all this in a most meticulous way, as Kleeman tells us. His manuscripts, with 406 illustrations, are now in the Bayerische Staatsbibliothek in Munich. Roesel also made the engravings of his drawings ..." (Nissen, 'Bestiaries'). The extremely rare supplement contains 240 pages and 26 plates. Landwehr mentions 3 states of the supplement with at most 192 pages and 26 plates. No title to the supplement was published. Volume II part 1 with some slight staining towards the end. ¶ Nissen ZBI, 3467; Landwehr, Studies in Dutch books with coloured plates, 161.

Variarum Imaginum a celeberrimis artificibus pictarum caelaturae elegantissimis tabulis repraesentatae. Ipa picturae partim extant apud viduam Gerardi Reynst, quondam huius urbis Senatoris ac Scabini, partim Carolo II. Britanniarum Regi a Potentissimis Hollandiae West-Frisiaeque Ordinibus dono missae sunt.
Amsterdam, n.d. [c. 1655–1660] 1 copper-engraved title-page and 33 (of 34) copper-engraved plates (most of them ca. 30 × 40 cm. image-size). Loose as published. In late 19th. century portfolio. ¶ Lacking plate 10 (The Virgin and child and st. Anne by the School of Raphael engraved by Jeremias Falck). Portfolio sl. worn; margins trimmed to platemark from plates 2 - 4 -13 -19 -32; minimal foxing at the extremities of some of the plates; overall a set in good condition and all plates are sharp impression. Collection-stamps on most versos.

¶ Very rare, near complete set as many of the existing copies either have been sold as individual prints or have ended in public collections. Skillfully executed large sized copper-engravings depicting the paintings from the Reynst brothers art collection. These prints were commissioned from a number of engravers (amongst them Jeremias Falck, Cornelis Visscher and Cornelis van Dalen II). The project was probably initiated around 1655, the year Jeremias Falck arrived in Amsterdam. However, with the death of Gerard Reynst, three years later, the work seems to have come to a halt. The works of art assembled by the brothers Gerard and Jan Reynst, both succesful merchants, grew into one of the largest, most important and unique collections of Italian paintings, antique sculptures, naturalia and various other collector's items in the Netherlands during the middle of the 17th century. € 17 500

A FEMALE COLOR THEORIST IN GEORGIAN ENGLAND

GARTSIDE, M. An Essay on a new theory of Colors, and on composition in general; illustrated by colored blots [in water color] shewing the application of the theory. 62 pp. Illustrated with 9 full-page original watercolours, "colored blots" and two tables of prismatic and compound colors, all colored by a contemporary hand. 4to., 280 × 250 mm, bound in a contemporary, simple cardboard binding. London: Printed by J. Barfield.for T. Gardiner, W. Miller, and I. and A. Arch, 1808.
Gartside produced probably what we can see as one of the earliest examples of abstract art, predating Kandinsky by nearly 100 years! The abstract quality of Gartside's color blots was recognized more recently when her blots where included in an exhibition on early abstract art at the Kunsthalle in Frankfurt. € 21 200

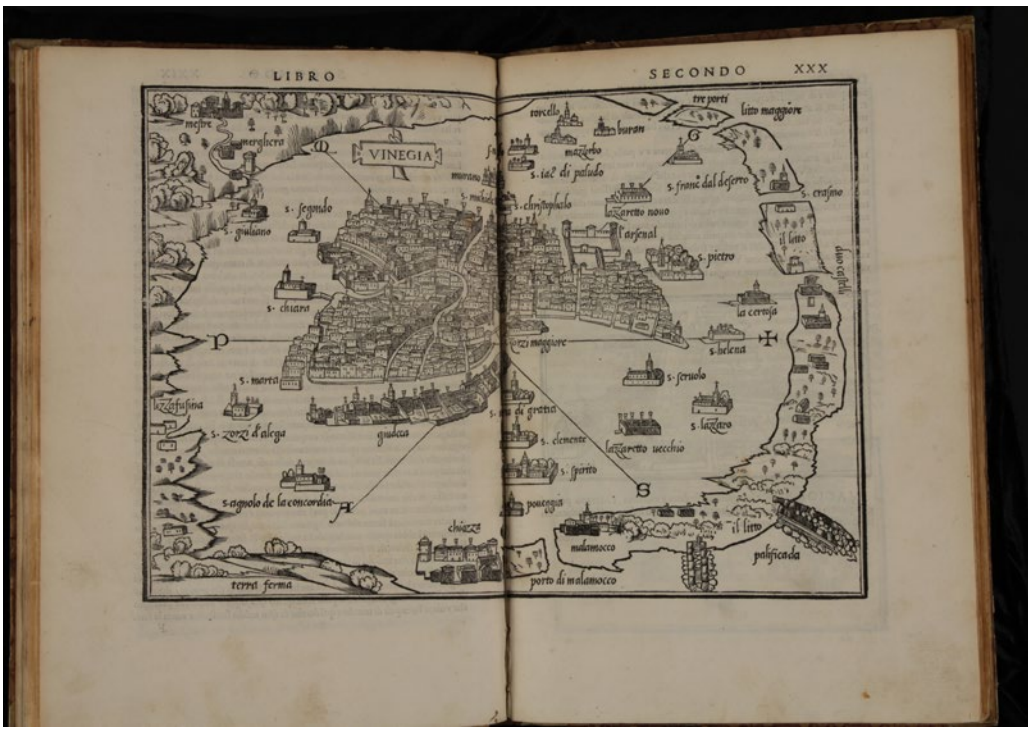
A few small tears restored. Printed on strong paper, the maps on even stronger paper than the text. Overall in good condition. € 60 000

The first folio atlas dedicated to the Low Countries, first published in 1617 and again in 1619, both with Latin text. This is the third and last edition and it is with French text. The Dutch provinces shown as a Lion, originally engraved by the van Langren brothers, here in its second (Kaerius) state. ¶ The strength and beauty of the contemporary colouring in one and the same hand, makes this atlas an exceptional example.

BORDONE, Benedetto

Isolario…Nel qual si ragiona de tutte Isole del mondo… (AND) Copia delle lettere del prfetto de la India de la Nova Spagna. Venice, "Zoppino"", june 1534. ¶ Skelton, 1966 ¶ In small folio; XIX century half vellum and painted paper over boards. ¶10 nn lvs; 74 leaves ¶ Maps in woodcut: 4 double page maps: World; Venice; Eastern Mediterranean and Europe; 4 smaller double page maps: Sicily; Crete; Cyprus and Euboea plus 103 woodcut maps in the text. ¶ Excellent condition. With some contemporary, marginal notes. € 35 000

A world atlas, the world interpreted as a series of islands. The tradition of the isolario was started in the eastern Mediterranean by Buondelmonto somewhere between 1417 and 1420. In this, its second edition, the book contains a very early notice of the conquest of Peru. ¶ Famous maps in the atlas are a double page world map in oval projection; a significant map of Scandinavia (A6 r.), the first printed map of Japan (N2 r.) and a map of North America (A6 v.) that form with another the map of South America (B5 v.) if combined an early printed map of the Americas north and south separated by the famous passage to the Indies, so much wanted by Spain to exist but never found while non-existent. ¶ A magnificent double page, bird eye's view of Venice (F1 v. and F2 r.) and another woodcut showing the city of Temistitan (B4 r. , Mexico) , both city views, are included as both city can be seen as islands. ¶ The Conquest of Peru , by Francisco Pizarro started with rumors on its existence among Spaniards in Panama around 1511. After three efforts to find the country, sailing south from Panama in 1522; 1524 and 1526 when he reached Tumbes in the north of the country, Pizarro traveled to Spain to obtain a contract to further discovery and conquest of Peru. In 1532 Pizarro sets off , again from Panama with 200 men and 63 horses. On arrival he destroys Tumbes, finds Atahualpa, de Inca emperor, in Cajamarca and kills him there. In late 1533 he sent four ships home with the gold obtained from Atahualpa. One of these four ships under his brother Hernando, arrives in Spain in January 1534. Our lettere, 5 months later, is the third printed report on those events. Of the two earlier reports, the Conquista del Peru, Sevilla, febrero 1534, one copy known and the German translation of that report: Newe Zeitung aus Hispanien und Italien only two copies are known to exist. Ours thus is the only realistically obtainable, first printed report on the conquest of Peru. ¶ Benedetto Bordone was an engraver of prints. His artistic capacities show in the rich and illustrative cutting of the woodblocks, used for the printing is this atlas.



MOLINA, Alonso de.
Vocabulario en lengua Castellana y Mexicana. En México, Casa de Antonio de Spinosa 1571 ¶ Palau 174 352; Medina, Mexico No 65; Fernandez de Zamorra no 62 ¶ Two books in one volumen ¶ Folio, rebound in contemporary vellum ¶ Title in manuscript on the spine ¶ Text in two columns ¶ 4 nn lvs; 121 lvs; one nn leaf ¶ 2 nn lvs; 162 lvs ¶ Woodcut initials; 5 woodcut prints including the two printer marks ¶ Title page restored and first leaf of the preliminaries in printed facsimile. Else fine. € 32 000

¶ This is the second edition of the first book and the first edition of the second book for one of the earliest dictionaries of the Mexican language, Nahuatl. The first edition of the Spanish-Mexican book of 1555 is practically unobtainable, Molina (Spanish, 1513–1579) came to Mexico as a boy and worked with the original 12 Franciscan missionaries who started Christianization of the country. He added the Nahuatl-Spanish book only to this, the second edition. Also of this edition Palau never saw a complete copy in his lifetime. En más de trecientos anos no había habido quien mejorase el gran Vocabulario de Molina. en más de trecientos anos no había habido quien mejorase el gran Vocabulario de Molina. Famous dictionary for use of missionaries in Africa and the Levant. Words are given in their most common setting and their specific meaning is explained in Spanish, then in Latin; then in Arabic.

DE SOUSA, Joao
Vestigios da Lingoa Arabica em Portugal & Documentos Arábicos para la Historia Portuguesa. 1790. Lisboa. 1830 ¶ Palau 329778 ¶ Two books in one volume in octavo ¶ Contemporary quarter leather with marbled boards € 2400

¶ The Franciscan Fr Joao de Sousa was born in Damascus in 1730 and dies in Lisbon in 1812. In 1794 he became the first professor of Arabic in Lisbon. ¶ The documentos consist of 58 letters written between 1503 and 1528 from Arabic speaking dignitaries to the Kings of Portugal, Manuel I and Joao III. They are printed in parallel Arabic and Portuguese. It is the first and only edition of these letters in a politically important period of time between Christian and Muslim authorities around the Mediterranean. ¶ The vestigios when they were first published in 1789 constituted at the time the first etymological dictionary to record Portuguese words, derived from the Arabic language. And there are many!

Vinkeles Jansz., directeuren' Large paper copy in fine interior condition. ¶ (Binding rubbed) ¶ Petrus Camper is renowned for his theory of facial angle (Prognathism). He determined that humans had facial angles between 70° and 80°, with African and Asian angles closer to 70°, and European angles closer to 80. According to his new portraiture technique, an angle is formed by drawing two lines: one horizontally from the nostril to the ear, and the other perpendicularly from the advancing part of the upper jawbone to the most prominent part of the forehead. He claimed that antique Greco-Roman statues presented an angle of 100–95°, Europeans of 80°, 'Orientals' of 70°, Black people of 70° and the orangutan of 42–58°. He stated that, out of all races, Africans were most removed from the classical sense of ideal beauty. (Wikipedia) € 800

THORNTON, Dr. Robert: 7 Tulips – A Dutch inspired landscape with 7 tulips: in the middle 'Louis XVI', below 'General Washington', 'La Majestieuse', 'Carnation Tulip', 'Duchess of Devonshire', 'Earl Spencer' and ? A gorgeous and very desirable plate in an early ed.; Etching, aquatint, stipple- and mezzotint engraving, hand coloured on wove paper. Watermark: J. Whatman 1794.;Sheet size: 47 × 57 cm. Image size: 35 × 47 cm.; From the famous and rare book 'Temple of Flora' by Dr. Robert John Thornton, published over a period 1799–1807 and a second ed. in 1811. This work is one of the most famous works on botany printed in England. It contained 70 large plates of exotic plant species, set in their natural habitat. State: 1st State. Ref: Nissen BBI 1955. € 8500

PERELLE, Gabriel, Nicolas, and Adam: Set of 46 views of Paris, it's building, parks, Palaces, Museums, Seine etc.; Etchings / engravings by Gabriel Perelle (1603–1677) and his sons Nicolas Perelle (b.1631) and Adam Perelle (1638–1695).; These plates were published as part of a large series of views of mostly France: ' Veues des belles maisons de France.', published by the Langlois and Mariette families of publishers from 1650 into the 18th. c. The content of this work varies. This set has several plates which carry the Nicolas Langlois address (1640–1703) but also include plates with manuscript titles. This, the lack of a title page and the paper point to a 17th. c. ed. Worldwide there is only one set of this magnificent series offered: a 1703 ed. with aparently all plates carrying the Langlois printed address). Clearly a scarse and valuable work. This is a fragment of this work, but in itself the complete Paris section.; Size: sheet c. 38 × 29 cm.; plate sizes vary. € 6500

(Cont. marbled boards, worn., titlepage with engr. vignette and 4 engr. plates and 4 pages containing the Latin and Dutch explanations. 44 × 33 cm.) € 14 500

¶ Dutch edition of the Pinax Microcosmographicus by the German physician Johannes Remmelin (1583–1632), first published in Augsburg in 1613 as 'Catroptrum microcosmicum suis aere incisis visionibus splendens cum historia et pinace de novo prodit' : three separate broadsheets on the anatomy of the male and female body, drawn by Remmelin and engraved by Lucas Kilian. This Dutch edition of 1667 contains the three original anatomical plates, redesigned with alterations by the Dutch engraver and printer Justus Danckers (1635–1701). The three anatomical plates are composed of several overlapping layers so that the male and female corpse and its main parts could be disected as an exercise for students. Danckers added a fourth plate: 'Afbeeldenisse der Huyd-aderen, die men gewoon is te openen, en te koppen.' A fine copy of this beautiful 17th century "flapbook", with explanatory texts in Latin and Dutch. Complete with all plates in good condition. A few traces of use inside, no loss of text. Rare.

BIBLES — THEOLOGY — (CHURCH) HISTORY — HANDCOLOURED WORKS — GLOBES

We have recently published a catalogue on the Reformation and the Dutch Second Reformation with 57 items, among which the two series below. This catalogue is for the greater part compiled from the entire private library of old and rare books of Prof. dr. Willem van 't Spijker. ¶ Van 't Spijker is emeritus professor of church history at the Theological University of Apeldoorn in the Netherlands, author of numerous books and a widely respected Reformation-scholar. His library consisted of many rare works by Reformers, their opponents and successors and presents a unique insight in the sixteenth century key movement in Western Christianity called the Reformation.

RARE SERIES OF COMMENTARIES ON THE PSALMS BY REFORMER BRENZ

BRENZ, Johannes Breuis & perspicua explicatio Psalmorum Dauidis. Decas Prima (-Decima). Tübingen, the widow of Ulric Morhardt 1565–1569
¶ Brenz's Commentaries on the Book of Psalms, here the first 10 volumes or Decades containing Psalm 1 until 100. Johannes Brenz (1499–1570) was a German Protestant Reformer and principal leader of the Reformation in Württemberg. He wrote his homilies mostly with the intention of teaching preachers about preaching and compiled them in Latin to be read out to theology students. This series on the Psalms was Brenz' last spiritual endeavour and it remained unfinished as he died in the process, psalm 101–106 by his hand were later published posthumously by Dietrich Schrempf (1525–1586), his son in law who also continued and finished the series. (Edges of the bindings slightly rubbed, wanting parts of the straps and clasps, tiny gap in page 127/128 of the first volume, waterstain in the bottom-margin of the last pages of volume 2 and a few wormholes in the top margin of the same pages.) € 5500

THE OPERA OF HUGUENOT THEOLOGIAN RIVET

RIVET, André Opervm Theologicorum. Rotterdam, Arnout Leers 1651/1652/1660
¶ The collected works of French Huguenot theologian André Rivet, or Andreas Rivetus (1572–1651). Rivet was appointed tutor to Frederik Hendrik's son William in 1631 and he was one of the leading ministers in The Hague. He was a relentless apologist of the Reformed faith against the attacks of the Roman Catholic Church and wrote against the Socinian's' theology. Here present are his numerous writings, divided among polemics, exegesis, dogmatics and edification, all in three volumes. (Water-stain in the first part of volume one, some pages of volume two are browned. The bindings of the first two volumes are slightly worn and/or restored on the spines, wanting ties.) € 6500

A LARGE ILLUSTRATED CELESTIAL ATLAS

DOPPELMAYR, Johann Gabriel Atlas Coelestis in qvo Mvndvs Spectabilis et in eodem Stellarvm Omnivm Phoenomena Notabilia. Nürnberg, Heirs of Homann 1742

¶ The most important astronomical work by German mathematician, cartographer and astronomer Johann Gabriel Doppelmayr (1671–1750). Doppelmayr wrote on astronomy, geography, cartography, spherical trigonometry, sundials and mathematical instruments. In his celestial atlas, presented here, he collected 30 large astronomical and cosmographical plates most of which he had prepared over the years for the Homann publishing firm. The Atlas consists of an engraved hand-coloured frontispiece and 30 double-page partially hand-coloured engraved plates. They depict celestial charts with diagrams, tables and views of observatories and were intended as an introduction to the fundamentals of astronomy. (The maps are occasionally soiled, verso of several maps restored at places, map 8 browned. Lacks the typographical titlepage and the index of the plates. With an extra double-page celestial map by Matthaus Seutter, ca.1730 bound right after the first map of the Atlas.) € 15 500

SILVER BINDING WITH GILDED DETAILS AND BIBLICAL SCENES

Strassburg, Johannes Beck 1739

¶ A fine German church book containing hymns and prayers for the use of Strassburg congregations. Bound in a silver binding with double clasp, the borders, head- and tail-band and the clasps made of gilded silver. The binding is richly decorated with Biblical scenes, depicting on the front cover the crucifixion, on the back cover Christ resurrected and on the spine Jonas and the whale, Moses and the copper snake and Samson and the lion. A fine and eye-catching copy. € 7250

THE FIRST SPORTS TEXTBOOK, ILLUSTRATED WITH WOODCUTS

Paris, Jacques Du Puys 1577

¶ The best known work of Italian physician and philologist Girolamo Mercuriale (1530–1606). First published in 1569 it was the first complete text on the subject of exercise in relation to health and medicine, being referred to as the first sports textbook. In this work he examines in extensive detail the principles and rules of exercise. It is also a history of the attitudes and practices of the Greeks and Romans in regard to diet, hygiene, bathing, and exercise, and their effects on health and disease. ¶ Illustrated with 22 woodcut illustrations and 1 folding plan, depicting various sports such as boxing, swimming and discus throw. The work is bound in a richly blind-stamped binding featuring on the front cover the coat of arms of the city Strasbourg and on the back cover a portrait of Christoph, Duke of Württemberg. A nice and complete copy of this important and early work on sports.€ 5500

OLD & RARE BOOKS — AVANT GARDE ART — LITERATURE — MANUSCRIPTS, LETTERS & DRAWINGS
LITERARY ARCHIVES — FINE PRINTING & ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

VASARI, Giorgio – La terza et ultima parte delle vite degli architettori, pittori et scultori. Firenze, 1550. 8vo, [2], 555–992, [44] p. Cont. blind stamped leather boards, spine and corners replaced with red morocco. ¶ Title within elaborate woodcut border, composed of allegorical figures and incorporating a city view of Florence, woodcut initials and large woodcut device at the end. Quite some rubbing and scuffing to the original leather boards, front inner hinge weakened, but binding intact. Overall a sound and clean copy. ¶ First edition. 3rd part of this highly important work by Italian painter and architect Vasari (1511–1574) concentrating on the three major arts, architecture, painting and sculpture. It provides invaluable information about famous Renaissance artists, many who would otherwise have remained unknown. Vasari was the first to use the term Renaissance (Rinascita) in print. He expanded his work in a second edition (1568), but this edition remains more informative. The 3rd part contains a.o. the entry on Michelangelo, who was the only living artist Vasari included in this work. € 6650

Marginale wormgaatjes, watervlekken in de marge van eerste en laatste bladen, lichte verbruining.. ¶ Schaarse 2de editie van dit medisch compendium van de Belgische apotheker Engelbert Capueel (1642–1733). De algemene inleiding geschreven in de vorm van een dialoog tussen een arts en een medisch student. Een tweede dialoog bespreekt de chirurgie. Het hoofdwerk omvat een verzameling medicijnen en remedies voor veel voorkomende ziekten en aandoeningen. In een bijlage selecties uit 'De medicina' van Aulus Cornelius Celsus. € 1650

Naauwkeurige beschryving der overstroomingen, benevens derzelver treurige gevolgen zo buiten als binnen deze republiek in den jaare MDCCLXXXIV voorgevallen. Leyden en Amsterdam, by F. de Does en I. de Jongh, 1785. 8vo, [16], 225, [11] p. Half leder uit de tijd, gladde rug met titel in goudopdruk. ¶ Exemplaar op groot papier. Met frontisp., grote uitslaande kaart van de Rijn vanaf de oorsprong tot aan Katwijk en 3 uitslaande platen (Mülheim, Nijmegen, Zutphen). Band licht gewreven, hoeken gedeukt. Weinig vlekjes, kaart en platen fris bewaard. ¶ De overstroming van 1784 wordt beschouwd als één van de grootste natuurrampen in Midden-Europa in de vroegmoderne tijd. Dit boek geeft een gedetailleerde omschrijving van de overstromingen. Met 3 uitslaande platen die de desastreuse gevolgen van de overstroming tonen: de verwoestingen door de ijsgang in Mülheim, het instorten van de Lappentoren in Nijmegen en de dijkdoorbraak nabij Zutphen. € 450

COMIDAS DE CARBOGNANO, Cosimo – Primi principi della gramatica Turca ad uso dei missionari apostolici di Costantinopoli. Roma, Stamperia della sac. Congr. di Prop. Fide, 1794. 4to, 12, 730 p. Later half calf, marbled paper boards, flat spine with gilt ruling and title, marbled edges and endpapers. ¶ Title printed in red and black with woodcut device, text printed in roman and Ottoman Turkish type. With an additional quire at the end containing the errata. A good, solid copy. ¶ First edition of the first Ottoman Turkish grammar in the Italian language. This grammar was written for the use of Franciscan missionaries in Istanbul, who sought to convert the Greek, Armenian and Jewish residents of the city. Following the grammar come five dialogues presented in three columns (Turkish in Arabic script, Turkish in transliteration, and Italian). The work ends with Turkish translations of several short Latin fables. € 1200

It is the last book overseen by Baudelaire himself, who suffered a debilitating stroke in March 1866 and died the following year back in Paris. The collection contains 17 unpublished poems to which are added the 6 'pièces condamnées tirées des Fleurs du mal'. The whole is accompanied by Baudelaire's notes. Preface ('Avertissement') and explanation of the frontispiece by Poulet-Malassis. € 5750

NATURAL HISTORY — TRAVEL & EXPLORATION — SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY
MANUSCRIPTS, LETTERS & DRAWINGS — PHOTOGRAPHY — DECORATIVE ARTS

THE REAL THING: PRINTED BY REMBRANDT HIMSELF

REMBRANDT H. van Rijn. Self-portrait with a velvet cap with plume. [Etching]. [Amsterdam], the artist, [ca. 1638–1640]. Single leaf of laid paper (13.6 × 10.5 cm). Signed and dated upper left; verso blank, except for a light pencil tracing of the watermark. Under passepartout (26.5 × 30.0 cm). ¶ A fine, original etching by the greatest Dutch painter and greatest etcher ever. This self-portrait was first printed in 1638; this is the second — with small improvements — of four states, with the artist's etched autograph above the left side of the cap. On laid paper with the Strasbourg Lily WR watermark. In good condition, the printing strong; no creasing, soiling or spotting, the image uncut. Bartsch, 20; NHD, 170 II(IV); RvR, 24. € 22 350

[J. BRANDT & Zoon]. Decorative leathers applied to modern furniture. Amsterdam, J. Brandt & Zoon, ca. 1910–1916. Folio (37.0 × 30.0 cm). With 36 original photographs of furniture leather crafting, each with a handwritten caption, on 34 leaves. Original full leather, with gilt title and vignette on the front board. ¶ J. Brandt & Zoon was an Amsterdam based paper wholesaler, active from 1742 until the mid-20th century. The present contains 33 framed photographs of contemporary decorative furniture, all in a style transitional between Jugendstil, or Art Nouveau, and Art Deco. Many items show the characteristic ornamentation of the Amsterdamse School. A few boards in the rear removed. Firm stamp on front flyleaf verso. A unique item in a very good state. € 2850

POTTER, P. Paul. Potter delineavit ad vivum. [Jaguars]. [Amsterdam], Nicolaes Visscher, ca. 1650. Oblong folio (18.6 × 24.2 cm). Engraved title page and seven other engravings (each ca. 14 × 17 cm), numbered 1–8 outside the printed frame. Later blind quarter vellum over marbled boards. ¶ A complete suite — with wide margins — of eight lively images of a jaguar (Panthera onca), native to South and Central America, and hardly known in Potter's time. In fact, these are the first accurate illustrations of a jaguar. First leaf rather soiled; nearly all other plates with only an occasional spot and generally clean; all with strong impressions. An attractive suite. Benezit 6, pp. 779–780; Hollstein 46 II. Not in Sabin. € 2900

INCUNABULA — EARLY PRINTING — MANUSCRIPTS — TRAVEL — NATURAL HISTORY — SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

18th-century manuscript with recollections of the Portuguese ambassador to the court of Louis XIV

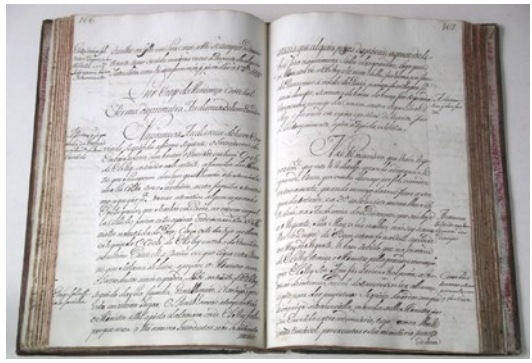
Folio (35,2 × 23,0 cm). 1 leaf, 396 numbered pages, 2 blank leaves. Marbled calf, gilt-decorated pine with 5 raised bands, gilt fleurons and gilt-lettered label. € 3000



¶ Very legible manuscript, written in 2 hands. First page, with title, has been written probably by Da Cunha Brochado himself in simple cursive writing. The other pages are written in a chancery hand, throughout the manuscript with indexing marginal annotations. The title reads as "Personal memories or Anecdotes from France, at the time of his Embassy at that Court". ¶ José da Cunha Brochado (1651–1733) is a well-known figure in Portuguese history. He was a magistrat and ambassador to the courts of France, England and Spain. In 1713 he participated at the negotiations leading to the Utrecht peace treaty. He recounts in this Memorias in a striking and condensed way the events at the court of Louis XIV and Louis XV and his personal impressions of them. The account begins in 1696, to end in 1725. Apart from his personal impressions of the court, the audiencies and the other diplomats, he provides also a number of diplomatic letters and articles from treaties concluded by Portugal, a.o. concerning its colonie Brazil. Later fly-leaves renewed and different from the paste-downs, lower part of spine damaged, lower part of hinges with small fissure, corners bumped and back cover with rubbed spots. Contents very fresh.

An illustrated Phillipps manuscript on antiquities

¶ Very well legible, neatly written and illustrated 18th-century manuscript from the Tournai Abbey, written in different hands in French on classical antiquities. Undated, but dated on first pages 1701, 1705 and 1755. Most annotations on different Roman, Greek and Egyptian subjects, but also annotations on tribes like a.o. the Saxons. Quoted as no 2174 in Phillipps manuscript-catalogue of 1837. Deducing from the index the manuscript is complete, with page 145 jumping to page 148 and pages 506–507 twice present. Headbands damaged, covers and spine bit soiled. Contents very fresh. A well-kept manuscript with a fine provenance.

Evert Ysbrants IDES 'Three Years Travels from Moscow over-land to China. thro' Great Ustiga, Siriania, Permia, Sibiria, Daour, Great Tartary; &c. to Peking Written by his Excellency E. Ysbrants Ides, Ambassador from the Czar of Muscovy to the Emperor of China. ... To which is Annex'd an Accurate Description of China, done Originally by a Chinese Author. London, Printed for W. Freeman, 1706. 4to. Pp. (xii), 191, 190–210 (i.e. 212). With engraved frontisp., a large folding map of north Asia by G. Droogenham (text in France), and 30 engraved plates, of which 8 folding. Including a separately title page to the chapter "A Short Description of the vast Empire of China by Dionysius Kao, a Native of that Country". Contemporary mottled calf, spine with five raised bands decorated in gilt and with morocco label. Hinges somewhat cracked but binding still firm. Bookplate of James Ogilvy (1663–1730). Copy of the Cullen House. Ides, a Dane in the service of Peter the Great, was sent as Ambassador to the Emperor of China during the years 1693–1695. This narrative describes the countries along the way, the customs and manners of the inhabitants, their religion, government, ceremonies of the Chinese court, etc. This expedition was also important in laying the groundwork for the Russian-Chinese fur trade. First English edition translated form the Dutch (Amsterdam 1704). The plates are those of the Dutch edition, with the Dutch captions replaced by English. "The Russian embassy had less trouble with the enormous self-esteem of the Chinese than many earlier and later embassies. Before the Tartars became masters of China, it was almost impossible for foreigners to find admittance to the Imperial Court. Under the emperor then ruling, Kan-hi [K'ang-hsi], ministers were courteously received and enabled to transact their business as at any other court. This accommodation was contrary to the temper and traditions of the old Chinese, who opposed it as much as they dared. Kang-hi was desirous of preventing Russian encroachments upon his territories and the Czar was anxious to establish a regular commerce with China. The expedition added considerable geographical knowledge to the little that was known about Manchuria and China". € 3750

A Harlot's Progress by William Hogarth. A complete set of six engravings of Hogarth's famous moral satire, A Harlot's Progress. The series was the first of Hogarth's 'Moral Progresses,' and, like the following 'Rake's Progress' and 'Marriage a-la-Mode', were a sardonic twist on the popular allegories of religious development and revelation in works like Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. The series, depicting the career of a young prostitute from initiation to untimely death, was inspired by an oil painting Hogarth had completed of a harlot in her boudoir. ¶ Wm. Hogarth invt. pinxt. et sculpt. 1732. (John & Josiah Boydell, London, c.1795) / Images 298 × 376 mm, Plates 320 × 394 mm, Sheets 475 × 645 mm € 1200
